Interior Mills Hit By Wildcat Strike

Discontent among members of the International Woodworkers of America over contract disputes with management spread today from the already-struck coast region to various parts of the interior, threatening to close down the forest industry across most of B.C.

About 350 Crown Zellerbach employees in the Kelowna area were off the job, along with 500 employees of Boundary Forest Products operations in Grand Forks and Midway, 400 Crestbrook Forest Industries employees in Cranbrook and Canal Flats and employees of Glenmerry Sawmills Ltd. near Trail, Tri Pac operations in Slocan and Kootenay Forest Products in Nelson.

In Vancouver today, IWA regional president Jack Moore, said the coast negotiating committee has instructed its lawyers to notify Forest Industrial Relations that FIR's refusal to make a decision on a settlement "constitutes a flagrant violation of the agreement reached on July 4."

Moore said: "If the negotiating committee has not been advised of the position of industry by noon Friday legal action in the Supreme Court will be initiated."

The walkout of interior IWA members is believed to be linked with the negotiations currently being held in Kelowna between the union and Interior Lumber Operators Association.

Earlier Wednesday, about 1,200 IWA members returned to work at six Kamloops-area mills following a five-day wildcat walkout to protest the lack of a contract settlement with interior forest companies.

In Nelson, about 300 forest workers returned to work Tuesday after a one-day walkout.

The union is asking parity with coast woodworkers along with industry-paid health and pension plans and other fringe benefits. Coast woodworkers have accepted a contract proposal which would bring the base rate for laborers to $4.45 an hour by next June.

McGovern Chooses Eagleton

Times News Service

MIAMI BEACH — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern has asked Senator Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri to be his running mate in the November election against President Nixon, informed sources said today.

There was no immediate word whether the 42-year-old Eagleton had responded to the McGovern request.

Eagleton in his first Senate term had compiled a liberal voting record. He is considered to be an ally of organized labor.

Earlier the Missouri senator had openly indicated his interest in the vice-presidential nomination and had told reporters Wednesday night he was one of three leading contenders after Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts had rejected a spot on the ticket.

In that conversation with reporters, Eagleton said he could help a McGovern campaign because of his youth, his Roman Catholic religion, his urban background and his ties with labor.

He and his wife Barbara Ann have two children.

McGovern was denied the one candidate for the vice-presidency that virtually all Democrats here agreed would strengthen the party ticket in its efforts to unseat President Nixon in the November elections.

McGovern told reporters that Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts was the first to phone and congratulate him after the nomination was confirmed. But Kennedy declined, "for very real personal reasons," to become McGovern's running mate.

McGovern staff members and advisers, including actress Shirley MacLaine, sat around a conference table in McGovern's 17th floor penthouse for nearly two and a half hours this morning with McGovern elsewhere in the suite going over at least a dozen names of potential No. 2 candidates.

McGovern won the nomination on the first ballot, as expected, with 1,728.35 votes, far more than the 1,509 which would have assured him a majority of delegates. The

NEWS BRIEFS

Store Clerk Found Murdered

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Edward Oliver, 63, of Burnaby, was found murdered Wednesday in a sporting goods store where he worked as a clerk. Police said he had numerous cuts on his chest and wrists and a four-inch gash on his throat.

Police believe Oliver was killed while attempting to stop a robbery. The cash till in the store was empty. The body was discovered by a passerby who had stopped to look in the store window.

New Charges Laid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four more locals of the carpenters' union were charged Thursday under the Mediation Commission Act with failing to order their members back to work and with purporting to authorize an illegal strike. The locals are: 452, Vancouver; 577, Nanaimo; 1735, Prince Rupert, and 1251, New Westminster.

Strike Halt Sought

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Western Hospital will apply to Supreme Court of Ontario today for an injunction to halt the strike by non-medical personnel, Boyd McAulay, the hospital's executive director said Wednesday night.

Yacht in Collision

Ulster Holiday: Parades Calm, But Eight Shot

BELFAST (AP) — Security Forces counted today the cost of the "Glorious Twelfth" and found Northern Ireland had suffered one of its bloodiest chapters of gunfighting in three years of strife.

Eight persons, including two British soldiers and a 15-year-old mentally-handicapped boy, were shot dead before, during and after Wednesday's parades throughout the province. Tens of thousands of Protestants, including some Orangemen from Toronto, took part.

The loyalist celebrations of a 282-year-old Protestant victory over Roman Catholic armies in the Battle of the Boyne — themselves passed off peacefully, with 32,000 troops, militia and police sandwiched between the communities to forestall violence.

But in advance of the marching, on its periphery and in its wake guerrilla assassins and bombers worked furiously.

The army suffered two killed and 11 wounded in battles with offensive units of the Irish Republican Army. The troops, whose death list since 1969 rose to 91, said they wounded or killed at least five of their shadowy assailants.

The other casualties came from skirmishes involving operatives from both Catholic and Protestant private armies and Ulster's over-all fatality toll rose to at least 425. Twenty-one persons have died since the Catholic-base IRA relinquished its ceasefire and resumed its offensive Sunday night.

There was one slight glimmer of hope amid the debris and gore of the day, however.

Seamus Twomey, chief of the IRA's Provisional wing in Belfast, summoned reporters to his home in the Catholic enclave of Andersonstown and told them his forces might consider renewing their ceasefire.

But he said the British government must guarantee there would be no army raids or arrests, no "harassment" of his men, and complete freedom for Provisionals to move freely around, albeit in "low profile."

He again accused British troops of breaking the IRA's ceasefire after only 13 days of relative calm. The British insist the IRA renewed the warfare.

The first to die Wednesday was a Protestant youth, gunned down as he strolled through a park in Portadown, County Armagh, while Protestants prepared their banners, flutes and drums for their biggest day of the year.

FBI Surrounds Grounded Plane As Hijackers Hold Hostages

FREEPORT, TEX. (UPI) — A jetliner skyjacked by two heavily armed men for $600,000 ransom blew four tires landing at a small Texas commuter field today. Federal agents surrounded the plane but the hijackers refused to surrender.

The crew members were injured in the hijacking that began over New York Wednesday night.

One stewardess escaped unhurt and the hijackers held three others aboard the stranded jetliner on the small airstrip 50 miles south of Houston. FBI agents attempted to negotiate through bullhorns as a steady rain fell.

The hijackers demanded another, smaller airplane, a pilot and swimming trunks. They said they would leave the ransom money behind if their other demands were met.

In another Wednesday night hijacking, a man surrendered in Oklahoma City after taking an American Airlines plane. A man identified as Melvin Marvin Fisher, 49, succeeding in obtaining a $200,000 ransom and then, surprisingly handed his empty .38 calibre revolver to a stewardess.

All 113 passengers aboard the National Airlines jet, originally commandeered on its planned final approach to John F. Kennedy International Airport, were released unharmed at Philadelphia where the skyjackers transferred to another plane and took off eight hours later with their ransom, three parachutes and six hostage crew members.

Before taking off for Texas, a seventh hostage, pilot Elliott Adams, 56, dived through a cockpit window "like a sack of potatoes" as the jetliner taxied 100 yards from the terminal building. Police dramatically pulled Adams into a speeding car and the jetliner took off with the co-pilot, flight engineer and four stewardesses.

The jetliner bypassed Dallas three hours later and headed for Houston, a regular National Airlines stop, circling down to 14,000 feet. Then they made the surprise landing at 5,000 foot long Lake Jackson airport at Freeport.

The co-pilot, pistol-whipped by the hijackers, and the flight engineer, shot in the side, managed to flee from the jetliner. A stewardess also fled safely and unharmed.

Eight FBI agents armed with high-powered rifles surrounded the jetliner as Sheriff Robert Gladney and state and local police sealed off the area for a radius of a mile.

SIGNS READY BUT NOT WAC

Socred election signs are coming off the presses of a Vancouver sign company which has instructions to have the order finished by July 23.

Despite this, Premier Bennett still denies he has set a date for the election, which most observers think will come in late August.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett, touring Alberta on political business, predicted an election will be called by the premier within two weeks.

Bennett said from his Kelowna home that he has nothing to do with the printing of the signs, which urge voters to re-elect him and others of the Socred party.

The premier said the signs do not indicate an impending election and no date has been set — "not even in my own mind."

SAULNIER RULED UNFIT

QUEBEC (CP) — Jacques Saulnier, Montreal police director, is unfit for his job and his place in the Montreal police organization should be re-evaluated, the Quebec police commission says.

The police commission made the recommendation in a report made public today by Justice Minister Jerome Choquette.

The report, outcome of an inquiry into the conduct of the Montreal police chief, says Saulnier "has neither the competence nor the aptitudes to direct a police service of the size of the police service of the City of Montreal."

Saulnier was appointed police director in April, 1971, by Mayor Jean Drapeau. He was promoted over the heads of 19 other police officers senior to him at the time.

The inquiry into Saulnier's conduct followed published reports that he had received an $800 color television set from a hotel-owner while he was a police captain in charge of the morality squad in Montreal in December, 1966.

The police commission's report censured Saulnier "for having put off the return of a color television set" and "for having neglected to inform his immediate superior."

Bombers Pound Fuel Tanks, Ports

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers hit North Vietnam Wednesday with the heaviest raids in more than a week, setting fire to fuel depots and supply and port facilities in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, the U.S. command announced today.

The command reported more than 340 strikes were flown, equalling the number on July 5 and said the closest to Haiphong was within a mile of the city. It made no mention of any plane losses.

North Vietnam charged that "many waves" of U.S. planes attacked areas inside and outside Haiphong, that dozens of persons were killed and nearly 200 houses destroyed.

Navy pilots from the carrier Hancock reported wrecking 12 buildings in strikes against the Van Dong storage area 20 miles northeast of Haiphong. Other attack planes set afire the Yen Cu and Hon Gai fuel depots 13 and 21 miles east and northeast of Haiphong, the navy said.

In the ground war, the 20,000-man South Vietnamese push into Quang Tri province was stalled for the seventh successive day by tough North Vietnamese resistance.

Meanwhile in Paris, the Vietnam peace talks resumed today after a two-month break, with both sides expressing readiness to discuss proposals for a political solution to the war.

Chief U.S. negotiator William Porter said before going into the conference room "we are entirely flexible about the possibility of discussing our proposals or theirs."

Viet Cong delegation leader Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh said the Communist side was ready to discuss "all new proposals put forward by the Americans in the search for a correct political solution acceptable to all parties."

FISCHER FORFEITS

REYKJAVIK (Reuter) — American challenger Bobby Fischer failed to show up tonight for the second game of the 24-game world chess championship series here and forfeited it to Soviet title-holder Boris Spassky.

Spassky now leads the 24-game series by two points to none. Under tournament rules, players have one hour to turn up after the scheduled starting time for a game or they forfeit it.

Community Flees Cloud of Poison

Times News Services

PORT ALICE — An estimated 95 tons of chlorine gas escaped from a tank at the Rayonier pulp mill here Wednesday night, forcing evacuation of the mill and the nearby hospital, theatre and legion hall.

Approximately 25 persons, including millworkers and seven patients and two nurses evacuated from the tiny hospital, were treated for chlorine poisoning with oxygen and milk at a hotel in Rumble Beach, four miles north of Port Alice.

Chlorine gas hung like a cloud over the small community 225 miles north of Victoria for a short time until a favorable wind dispersed it a southeasterly direction, away from Port Alice and its new townsite, Rumble Beach.

RCMP said the leak was not in the tank itself but in a pipe leading directly into the mill. A police spokesman said the pipe began leaking earlier in the day and "progressively got worse until it broke open" at about 9:45 p.m.

About 70 persons inside the movie theatre near the mill had sufficient warning to get out of the area without being affected, but a score of men at the plant gulped oxygen to clear their lungs of the choking gas.

Mayor John Vanderelt said chlorine, used to bleach pulp, had been leaking at the plant earlier in the day, although without serious effect, and that "these leaks have been happening quite often recently."

A southeast wind blew the gas to the hospital, where the staff rushed to close windows and doors to protect the patients until they could be removed.

Massive or prolonged inhalation of the gas can cause severe inflammation of the lungs and death.

'Insufficient Evidence' For Charges

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Les Peterson has been told there is insufficient evidence to warrant the laying of criminal charges over a demonstration in New Westminster last month against members of the provincial cabinet.

Vancouver lawyer Sam Toy, appointed special prosecutor after New Westminster police said charges were likely, said Thursday he had reported to Peterson that there is not enough evidence.

Toy said he made the recommendation regarding the conduct of the crowd after an extensive examination of reports, photographs taken at the scene and potential witnesses.

FINISHING TOUCHES are put on the low-pollution car of engineering students of the University of British Columbia prior to entering in a competition sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Barber Won't Cut Hours for City

Carlos Almeida comes from the Portuguese Azores Islands where they still fight whales in small boats — and he doesn't bow to anybody.

The 38-year-old owner-manager of Mayfair Barber Shop has been asked by Victoria police to bow to municipal bylaws that say barber shops must close on Sundays and at least one other day of the week and by 5:30 p.m. on open days.

Almeida had no objections to the bylaws until a couple of weeks ago when Mayfair Shopping Centre began opening Mondays. "I wouldn't mind being closed if everybody was closed," he said, "but when the shop at Town and Country extended their hours my business dropped and I had to let one barber go."

Phil Petersen, manager of Town and Country Barber Shop said he is open six days a week from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except Thursdays and Fridays when he is open until 9 p.m. Saanich has no bylaws concerning business hours:

"I sympathize with Carlos," said Petersen. "In 1968 I was kicked out of the union for extending my hours but you can't operate a business five days a week when the shopping centre is open six. Sure, He's opposition to me, but opposition is good business. If I can give him any help, I will."

Mayfair manager A. G. Coning described the situation as a "damn scandal." "It affects the all-round service the shopping centre offers. Miserable, silly little things like this are just lumps of sand in the works. We're behind Carlos all the way," he said.

Secretary of the barber's Union Leonard Stephenson is not behind Almeida. "If you don't like the law, you should change it. I don't like civil disobedience and I never have," he said.

"The biggest portion of our membership business consists of one-chair shops," Stephenson said. He said one-man shops would have to open six days a week to compete with larger shops.

Almeida said, "multiple barber shops are replacing one-man shops. Already this year 15 one-man shops have gone out of business."

Almeida came to Canada in 1956 and worked in a hotel barber shop for eight years before aquiring his own. He began cutting hair at the age of 11 and his father, grandfather and great-grandfather were barbers.

His brother Paulo works with him and another brother has a shop in Oak Bay. None of his brothers or ancestors have ever been in such a situation.

Brother Paulo said the union is working against them. "All they do for us is get replacements when someone in our shop is sick," he said.

Almeida first violated the bylaws by opening Monday, July 3. "Nobody said anything and business was twice as good as a normal day because it was the day after the long weekend."

He opened again the following Monday and police went to the shop and asked him to close. He remained open. He said the police have promised to deliver a summons if he opens next Monday.

He plans on opening Friday night and next Monday.

Foreign Aid Costs $760M

PARIS (CP) — The net flow of foreign aid to developing countries by 16 major western powers rose 14 per cent last year to $18.1 billion, and Canada's share rose 21 per cent to $760 million, the Organization for Economic Co-operation and Development reported Wednesday.

OECD's development assistance committee, of which Canada is a nember, also reported that official development aid given by all governments rose 11 per cent to $7.7 billion. But Canada's governmental aid program fell short of its goal, declining to $342 million from $346 million in 1970.

Official aid includes grants and low-interest loans made by governments to developing countries or international aid agencies, minus any repayment of earlier loans. The total flow includes development aid by non-governmental volunteer agencies and foundations.

The OECD said 1971 figures are difficult to compare with 1970 foreign aid accomplishments because of changes that occurred during the year in the international exchange values of some currencies.

In terms of national currencies—in Canada's case, in Canadian dollars—the total aid program of all 16 countries rose last year by 12.6 per cent, while Canada's official and unofficial aid rose by 17.4 per cent.

Government-only, aid for all countries rose by 10.5 per cent last year, but Canada's official aid fell 4.5 per cent in Canadian dollar terms.

OECD said its figures for 1971 are preliminary, and subject to revision. The Canadian Parliament voted a $60 million increase last year in the official aid program, bringing it to $424 million, and added another $60 million for this year.

However, the Canadian International Development Agency, which handles the government's foreign aid program, has said there is inevitably a time lag between the voting and allocation of foreign aid funds, and their actual expenditure.

Inflation and exchange rate revaluations cut into the real benefit receiving countries received from the aid given them. While the gross national product of the 16 donor countries combined rose by 9.1 per cent last year, 5.4 per cent of the increase was inflationary.

The other problem was that donor countries tended to tighten the terms on which they grant low-interest loans. Loans in 1970 were granted for an average term of 30.2 years; but this was reduced in 1971 to 28.6 years.

JUDGE RAPS PAROLE POLICY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Provincial court judge David Moffett sentenced John Goronuk to 12 years Wednesday for offences committed while on parole and criticized the National Parole Board for allowing a man parole "when it was known he was an habitual offender."

"Their policy should and must be changed," Judge Moffett said.

Goronuk, 40, was sentenced to 12 years for defrauding Karl Zuker of $35,000. He was also sentenced June 9 to three consecutive five-year terms on three counts of fraud, also committed while he was on parole.

In addition to the recent sentences, Goronuk has 40 months remaining of an earlier five year, six-month term for fraud and escaping custody.

New Commander Honored On Friday

A special ceremony will be held at CFB Comox Friday at 2 p.m. when Col. D. W. McNichol takes over as base commander of the up-Island station.

He relieves Col. Grant H. Nichols, who will go to NORAD headquarters in Colorado Springs to serve in the combat operations section.

McNichol comes from CFB Winnipeg, where he was stationed in the comptroller's department of training command.

Mountie's Wife Dies in Toronto

Louise (Joey) Forrest, wife of Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest of the RCMP, has died in Toronto and will be buried in the RCMP cemetery in Regina, Sask.

Mrs. Forrest was well known in Victoria during the years her husband commanded the RCMP E Division.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, James, and a brother, John Allen of Cobourg, Ont.

total was subsequently boosted by vote changes among some delegations switching to the winner.

The votes which sent McGovern over the magic 1,509 figure came from the Illinois delegation, which McGovern supporters captured after a harsh dispute with the forces of Mayor Richard Daley of Chicago. The Illinois count was announced by a Daley backer, who pledged that the state would unite behind the winner.

And Senator Henry Jackson of Washington, who picked up enough strength to run second, immediately sent word to the winner that he would support the McGovern compaign against Nixon.

The decision was especially significant because of Jackson's strong support from organized labor, which opposed McGovern to the bitter end.

When the roll-call of states was concluded, McGovern had 219 votes more than he needed. After many votes had been changed, he wound up with 1,864.95.

Behind him, in order, came Jackson with 486.65; Gov. George Wallace of Alabama, 377.50; Representative Shirley Chishalm of New York, 101.45; former Gov. Terry Sanford of North Carolina, 69.5,; Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, 35; Representative Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, 32.8; Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, 20.8; Kennedy, 10.65; Representative Wayne Hayes of Ohio, 5; former Senator Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, 2, and Senator Walter Mondale of Minnesota, 1.

Fractional votes were cast because in some states there were more delegates than votes. To get around the problem of allowing all shades of opinion to be represented on the floor, many delegates were given fractional votes.

. . . IWA

Wednesday and Kevin Kelly, financial secretary of the Kamloops IWA local, said Tuesday he was optimistic "a Solution and agreement is possible by the end of the week."

In Vancouver earlier, Moore accused Forest Industrial Relations — bargainers for the industry — of trying to blackmail the woodworkers by postponing a ratification vote by the 115 companies.

FIR and IWA negotiators discussed local issues for more than an hour Wednesday, but scheduled no further talks. Moore said these local problems had never been part of industry negotiations.

He said both sides had agreed in a memorandum of agreement July 4 to recommend a settlement package for the whole industry and accused FIR of "refusing to abide by their commitment."

"This outright effort to blackmail the woodworkers is keeping 28,000 people out of work and is detrimental to not only the workers involved but the whole community of B.C.," Moore said in a telegram to FIR president John Billings.

Billings said the forest companies had instructed FIR to continue the local meetings, adding that "these instructions are being carried out."

Keep Off Grass: CUPE

A local of the Canadian Union of Public Employees is seeking a temporary injunction to stop the Greater Victoria school board from instructing school janitors and custodians to do outside maintenance work.

A hearing will be held Friday morning in B.C. Supreme Court.

An application for an injunction was filed Tuesday for CUPE local 382 by lawyer J. J. Gow. The local represents all the outside workers employed by the school board.

In particular, the application seeks to stop the school board from instructing janitors and custodians to cut and water grass, and water and tend shrubberies and flower beds on school sites.

The application says such activity is in breach of the current agreement between the two parties.

The problem has come up this summer because the school board has not hired its usual summer staff of university students to handle outside maintenance work at the schools. This came about after defeat of the board's $400,000 operating expenses referendum in March.

The defeat resulted in a $925,000-trimming of board expenditures for 1972.

Board chairman Allan McKinnon said this year the janitors and custodians were asked to take on the extra work of watering and tending the grass and shrubs since there would be no one else to do it. But the union had objected and the court application is the result.

POSTAL PLOY: SCENIC CARDS

Each province and territory has its share of the 90 different scenes offered.

No Scandal Over Nude Indian

BRAMALEA, Ont. (CP) — Chinguacousy Township councillors got their first look at their controversial nude statue Wednesday and no one seemed scandalized.

The 10-foot cedar statue of a West Coast Kwakiutl Indian was unwrapped in a barn beside Highway 7 for the councillors to get a peek.

"I don't see anything indecent in that," was Councillor George Gardhouse's verdict on the sculpture, which has caused protests from a church in this town just northwest of Toronto.

After the councillor had their look at what had been described as an "heroically proportioned nude," the $1,000 statue was carefully wrapped up and locked away again.

It will remain in the barn across the highway from the headquarters of the Chinguacousy police, until after the council has debated objections to the statue July 17.

It may yet end up on the site for which it was originally purchased—the entrance of the township's new municipal headquarters.

Gospel Service To Be Sponsored By Baptists

The fifth in a series of 11 summer Gospel services will be held at the Cameron Bandshell in Beacon Hill Park Sunday, July 16, at 7 p.m.

The Gospel message will be given by Rik Hall, Emmanuel Baptist Church youth director. Supporting him will be Chilliwack's Sound and Light musicians accompanied by Jennifer Spicer.

The series is sponsored by Park Services Interdenominational.

Rain Toll Rises

TOKYO (Reuter) — Japan's worst rainstorms in 15 years have left more than 400 dead and missing — and police warned today the toll was likely to climb even higher.

Shipping Editor Dies in Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP) — Norman Arthur McLellan, 54, of West Vancouver, editor of Harbor and Shipping Magazine, died Tuesday in Nanaimo.

McLellan became ill while trying to push his cabin cruiser off a mud bar in Nanaimo harbor and oxygen and mouth-to-mouth resuscitation failed to revive him.

The long spell of extremely cool cloudy and wet weather which has plagued B.C. for the past week was beginning to show signs of improvement early this morning. The last of a pattern of Pacific weather systems to bring rain to southern B.C. is due to arrive tonight, bringing more rain to southern Vancouver Island and the lower mainland, but should give way to sunny skies by Friday afternoon. Temperatures will begin a gradual upswing.

DEBRIS-COVERED LAWNS greeted West Vancouver residents as they returned today to their homes after fleeing floodwaters from rain-swelled creeks. Tons of mud and boulders surged down on to residential streets and property and large sections of the upper levels highway were torn away.

Death Duty Decision Upheld

The Supreme Court of Canada has upheld a lower court ruling allowing the provincial government to collect $1.75 million in succession duties from the estate of Vancouver businessman P. A. Woodward.

Woodward was the brother of the late W. C. Woodward, a lieutenant-governor during the Second World War, whose widow died in April at her home, Woodwynn Farm in Brentwood.

Woodward died Aug. 27, 1968, leaving $4 million of his $4.5 million estate to the P. A. Woodward Foundation.

A copy of the Supreme Court of Canada's ruling was released here by Attorney-General Leslie Peterson.

On May 1, 1969, Premier Bennett, acting as finance minister, ruled the foundation was not a charitable organization under the Succession Duty Act. His ruling was upheld by the B.C. Court of Appeal.

Executives of the estate challenged the appeal court decision, saying that Bennett had acted outside his jurisdiction.

In Kelowna, Bennett refused to comment on the court decision but said the $1.75 million had been collected a long time ago.

Asked if he would return it to the foundation in view of his announced policy of abandoning the succession duty field in 1973, Bennett said he wouldn't have the authority to do so.

5 Assassinated In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuter) — Gunmen assassinated four leaders of Guatemala's governing National Liberation Movement Wednesday and killed the seven-year-old son of one of them, police sources said here.

The murders came only three weeks after Oliveiro Castaneda Paiz, one of this Central American republic's top political leaders and an avowed guerrilla fighter, was gunned down at his daughter's birthday party.

The right-wing government party reported Wednesday night that leaders Cayetano Estrada, Juan Barrientos, Jose Duarte and Miguel Angel Espin were shot to death in various cities and Duarte's son also was killed.

During the hunt for the 34-year-old politician's slayers a guerrilla was shot to death and two policemen were killed, but responsibility for the death was not established.

He was the fourth parliamentarian of the present legislature, elected in 1970, to die by assassination.

AMOROUS KING OF BEASTS DIES

LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Frasier, the amorous lion, died early today at Lion Country Safari after a long and full life.

"Frasier died in the early hours of the morning," an official announcement said. "It was a peaceful and painless death."

Frasier had gained worldwide attention in the past year by taking over a pride of 11 young lionesses and siring 33 cubs in a 16 month period although he himself was between 17 and 20 years old—the equivalent of 85 to 100 years in a human being.

Veterinarians said earlier this week that Frasier was ill with a kidney malfunction. They had been giving him five vitamin shots a day to keep up his strength.

The old lion had been brought indoors away from the strains imposed by his harem of adoring but insatiable lionesses—and had been under constant observation, a Lion Country Safari spokesman said.

Frasier was the star attraction of the safari, a privately-owned wild animal park which charges visitors admission to drive their cars through Africa-like terrain, populated by wild animals of many species.

With the park's publicity men beating the drums for him, Frasier's amorous prowess had made him a nationally known pop hero and sex symbol—with t-shirts, buttons, records, aprons and "Frasier for President" bumper stickers.

A skeptical reporter, observing Frasier one day recently, counted 26 matings in an afternoon, generally at the instigation of the insistently seductive females.

B.C. Ferry Marksman Fined $100

SECHELT (CP) — A Powell River man was fined $100 and sentenced to one day in jail Wednesday following a shooting incident on the deck of a B.C. Government ferry.

Floyd Robert Byles, 30, pleaded guilty in provincial court to possession of a weapon dangerous to the public.

About five rifle shots were fired at the shoreline as the ferry Powell River Queen approached Earls Cove on a June 22 sailing from Saltery Bay.

Press-Union Talks Resume

Representatives of Victoria Press Ltd. and its five unions of employees were back at the bargaining table today for the first time in two weeks.

The resumption of negotiations came about after Victoria Press general manager J. C. Melville wrote to the Victoria Newspaper Council of Unions Wednesday, saying the company is "prepared to meet in order to hear the council's suggestions for effecting a possible settlement of current negotiations."

Melville said the company had noted "the approach to normal operations" in the production of Tuesday's edition of the Times and Wednesday's edition of the Daily Colonist. The company had said earlier, after a request for further meetings from the unions, that it would not meet until plant operations were normal.

U.K. Gets Independent Radio

LONDON (Reuter) — Britain's new independent Broadcasting Authority officially came into being Wednesday in advance of the establishment of some 60 commercially-sponsored radio stations.

The IBA, replacing the 18-year-old Independent Television Authority, will have overall responsibility for these stations as well as commercial television station.

The Increasing McGovern Momentum

The Democratic convention at Miami Beach moves through its rituals, occasionally with the stylized grace of the sandhill crane's mating dance, to arrive at the inevitable conclusion. Senator George McGovern will carry the party's standard against the Nixon Republican forces. His course will be calculated to avoid, as far as possible, those prickly Democratic issues that could alienate voters and yet it must appear to advance the liberal cause.

The convention, if it follows tradition, will close with the magnanimous pledges of support from rival factions within the party. And it will then be up to the senator to see if, in fact, he can glue together the divergent forces into sufficient strength to carry through a convincing, united campaign.

If the task seems daunting, the success of Senator McGovern so far has been encouraging to his supporters. A few months ago his capabilities were generally matters of charitable doubt by significant Democratic groups. In the last two or three months those capacities have been amply recognized. He won primaries he was not expected to win. His appeal spread through the ranks of convention delegates. The impetus of his drive has lifted him from the ranks of the also-rans in his own party and the momentum continues.

Canadians, perhaps less remote than many alien observers, have noted the progress, have seen the rising McGovern wave sweep over such obstacles as the argument presented by the brutally injured George Wallace and envelop the forces of stubborn rival candidates.

On the face of it, the candidate appears to have directed the party platform into the channels he desired: immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, closing of tax loopholes, replacement of welfare with an incomes grant and support of school busing.

He has not, however, met the specific requests of many factions within Democratic ranks, factions whose particular objectives would be "embarrassing" in the campaign. He loses little on this score, since those interests could look for little sympathy from the alternative offered the voters.

It would be unrealistic to accept at face value the expressions of confidence which will emerge from the party convention in its closing days. That, also, is part of the ritual.

But to northern neighbors, the manner in which Senator McGovern has marshalled strength at Miami Beach can only be impressive. And they cannot overlook the impact the challenger's campaign will have on them as events march toward the November climax.

Nor, for that matter, can they discount the effects the McGovern campaign could have on the techniques of public appeal applied to the Canadian scene.

Those Who Should Pay

Greater Victoria School Board seems completely justified in laying down a stern course to recover funds wasted through vandalism in the city schools. The intent, when young offenders are caught, is to ask parents or guardians to make up the loss. If they decline, then appropriate legal action is contemplated.

A similar procedure has been followed on an earlier occasion and served not only to spare the general taxpayers the costs of clean-up, repair and replacement, but also to discourage a repetition of destructive juvenile activity in the locality involved.

Construction and maintenance chairman, Trustee Peter Bunn, makes the very valid point that property-owners in the school district should not be saddled with such unnecessary expense. If they are, their attitude to referendums seeking funds for essential work is predictable: Why waste money on schools whose facilities are wrecked by wilful young hoodlums?

There are, of course, instances in which the policy may not be pressed home. In the case of the mentally defective — always a consideration in vandalism — some injustice might be inflicted on troubled parents. A similar effect could emerge in cases in which a poor, single parent was incapable of handling an incorrigible child. Moreover, certain legal technicalities could be involved in prosecution.

But the trustees' position is clear. They have no intention of considering this type of destruction — costing thousands of public dollars — to be the work of naughty boys who should be tapped on the wrist and told not to do it again. They are looking ahead, knowing that it will be difficult to collect taxpayers' dollars for necessary or desirable purposes and that collection will be increasingly difficult if the taxpayers believe the board accepts the waste of vandalism without trying vigorously to stop it. In the process they should be giving a valuable lesson to some parents who, in turn, can deliver sharp lessons to their offspring.

'Conned'?

Mr. David Anderson has offered his opinion that Washington State governor Dan Evans "conned" Premier Bennett into signing a memorandum of co-operation between the province and its southern neighbor to work together to try to avoid oil spills in the Strait and, if they should occur, to act in concert to clean up the mess. The signature alone, it is indicated, would be sufficient if the governor wished to use it, to imply British Columbia's resignation to the fact that tanker traffic will be established.

Unfortunately, Mr. Anderson's comment on the document's signing ignored the very emphatic point made by Premier Bennett at that time that the legislature, not just his government, had passed unanimously a resolution opposing oil shipment through the Strait.

The plan for co-operative action corresponded to emergency precautions that might be taken by a householder, hoping never to have a fire in his home, but making provision for fire-fighting forces in case one occurred.

C. L. SULZBERGER

'No Shootings, Just Murders'

BELFAST — There is no more suitable national symbol than the Red Hand of Ulster, recalling an avid Celtic chieftain who chopped off his hand and heaved it ashore to claim this bloody land. The only other Red Hand I know was a secret French terrorist organization that specialized in killing Algerian patriots. Ulster's Red Hand reaches out for anyone.

If you drive through this drab capital now divided by steel and cement barricades erected by the Protestant Ulster Defence Association (U.D.A.), you get the mood through slogans smeared on building walls: No surrender . . . I.R.A. Bastards . . . U.D.A. Rules . . . this is Protestant Belfast . . . Young Lads Join Fianna Eireann (A Catholic Republican society).

Thanks to intimidation and burning down of nonconformist blocks, partial segregation is becoming full apartheid based on religion. Britain's Army, here as the token of law and order, is constrained to follow an unaggressive low-profile policy while the I.R.A. murder and the U.D.A., burly in camouflaged jackets and military caps, hijack buses to move their units and strut in their hundred per cent Protestant warrens.

Logic Abjured

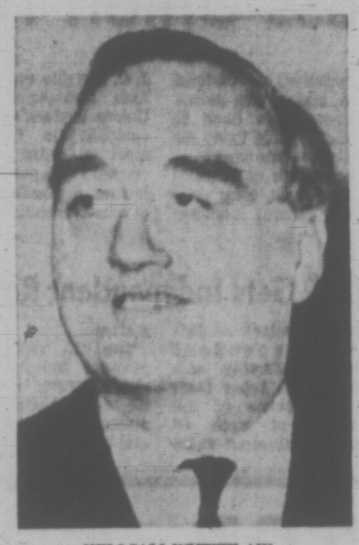
Ireland is an unhappy island where men in both parts talk like poets, walk and think like seventeenth-century soldiers, and abjure the practice of logic. In the South, Protestants are second-class citizens; in the North Catholics are second-class citizens.

Here in Ulster, people are being unwillingly conditioned to a kind of lawlessness. The moderate majority is disintegrating as atavistic hatreds take over. This week the great Protestant holidays began, honoring battles and sieges of the past.

Sturdy paraders from the Orange order marched behind their thunderous lambeg drums, not held adequately played until the drummers' thonged wrists bleed. Their noise is designed to encourage Protestants and frighten Catholics — and it does. Also this week the bonfire season started with each side stoking pyres within its tribal enclaves.

How to make sense out of this bizarre situation which seems to balance permanently on the edge of a cliff is the task of William Whitelaw, installed this year as Britain's Secretary of State and, in effect, benevolent dictator of Northern Ireland.

Whitelaw is a bluff man whose hearty manner conceals subtle negotiating skills. Last month he managed to arrange a truce that ended bombings and burnings. But he was unable to curb the national sport of murder. Almost every day new corpses turn up. Whitelaw explains:



WILLIAM WHITELAW
. . . a very fragile truce

"It is a very fragile truce. Three years of violence have left all kinds of pressures, bitterness and a desire for revenge among the militants. Old scores are being paid off, but one should not underestimate the relief among ordinary families because there are no burnings or bombings. No real shootings; just murders."

Only in Northern Ireland does such a statement make sense. The British position is exceedingly difficult. The Protestant majority feels let down by a Tory Government regarded as a friend and ally, which closed down Ulster's autonomous administration. There is widespread fear that London intends to sell the North out to the South. According to Whitelaw:

"The more the Catholic minority is pleased, the more the Protestant majority is angry. As a result, Britain is caught in a cleft stick. But if 85 per cent of this population is happy to live together, 15 per cent is not; and that includes the extremists of both sides. The moderates are vanishing just as they should speak out. But they don't; and they have no leaders in sight."

There is so much emotional thinking that some Ulster men in the end even talk of following Rhodesia's example by declaring unilateral independence. But this is nonsense. The place would promptly go broke without British capital and subside into a chaos of unemployment.

Referendum Promised

Whitelaw promises to hold a national referendum soon on the existing frontier with the Irish Republic. This would allow the Protestant majority to let off steam by voting against all thought of unification. Says Whitelaw: "They don't believe us on anything right now. It is necessary to reassure them."

How much such reassurances would be worth is hard to assess. Illegality has become a habit; killings, hijackings, private armies, and barricaded enclaves from which authority is barred.

Reason should prevail in the late twentieth-century among these vigorous Celts, but their political gifts are best expressed in other lands to which they emigrate. Here the mood favors the national flag, flapping on more and more houses, with the Red Hand of Ulster at its center.

Assessing Strike Costs

MONTREAL — It's a well-worn cliche that everyone loses during a strike. However, even in this city — where many people have become cynical and hardened by a succession of labor troubles — the cost of the recent eight-week wildcat longshoremen's strike is still horrifying.

In absolute dollar terms, the walkout ended last week by special federal legislation cost businessmen and union members over $100 million.

Loss of revenue to trucking companies, tugboat operators, ships chandlers, railroads and other industries which serve Canada's largest port is estimated at more that $50 million.

Another $20 million was lost by importers, according to estimates by the Canadian Importers Association. Export sales were probably more severely hurt, but no figures are available.

More than 30 million bushels of grain which would have been shipped through Montreal were diverted to grain elevators in other cities. Waiting for delayed shipments at other ports kept many ships idle several days, at a cost of up to $6,000 a day.

Other Losses

These losses were repeated to a lesser extent in the ports of Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres, Que., which were also strikebound until special legislation was passed in Ottawa last week.

The 3,200 longshoremen in the three ports lost at least $2,500 each in wages, and many would have made more than that because of overtime during the busy summer shipping season. Now that their illegal walkout has been ended, about half of the dockers are also out of work temporarily until business volume increases.

Under a contract ratified by the men last spring, they could have received job security payments in the event of layoffs. However, this provision was suspended temporarily by the back-to-work legislation until port business returns to normal.

If losses incurred by local business and workers during the last eight weeks are staggering, the possible long term effect of the labor dispute along the waterfront may be more disconcerting.

At least one major shipping firm has cancelled all scheduled trips by its vessels to Montreal this year. Other lines have moved personnel and equipment to the ports of Halifax and Saint John, N.B., and it is uncertain how much will return.

MARTIN O'CONNELL
a private affair until . . .

Arnold Master of the Maritime Employers Association told reporters this week that it will take at least four months to know whether the port has returned to normal.

About 30 per cent of the business done by the port of Montreal is 'discretionary' — a word used by shippers to describe business that could easily be switched to other cities. The other 70 per cent will likely remain here despite a bleak record of labor trouble in recent years.

Even so, a loss of even 10 per cent of the port's business would do away with hundreds of jobs with stevedoring firms and allied services. This fact was recognized during the strike by Premier Robert Bourassa and Quebec Labor Minister Jean Cournoyer, who both termed the strike a disaster and urged Ottawa to act.

The federal government also lost heavily during the strike, not only income taxes and other tariff revenue, but that important political commodity in an election year — prestige.

Federal Labor Minister Martin O'Connell insisted repeatedly that the dispute was a private affair between employer and employees, until ultimately he had to present back-to-work legislation in the House of Commons.

In itself, the bill was a farce for it was essentially a law requiring longshoremen to obey a law already on the books.

Ruled Illegal

An arbitration board ruled that the walkout was illegal, and there are sanctions in the federal Labor Code to handle just such a situation.

Aside from the money lost by longshoremen, they also lost any apparent chance of having the contentious contract clauses which sparked the strike resolved.

Under a contract signed earlier this year, the men agreed to allow the traditional system of having 17-man gangs load and unload ships broken up, in return for 36 weeks annual guaranteed employment and a generous pension scheme.

Instead, the men agreed to be assigned to loading operations by a computer in gangs of varying sizes — eliminating cases where only five or six men in a 17-man gang were actually needed.

However, the rank-and-file rebelled when the stevedoring companies tried to introduce the new system. In the past, the unneeded men on the gangs had been able to "spell" each other off — taking what amounted to regular four and five-day paid vacations.

Goose and Golden Eggs

Lethbridge Herald

Health Minister Munro may have been wetting his forefinger to the political wind when he told the Canadian Commission on Social Development in Quebec that the middle income group is going to have to pay higher taxes if poverty is to be eradicated in Canada. Unfortunately Mr. Munro, throwing tact to the winds, added a rider. He said that it would be relatively useless to impose a heavy tax increase on the rich, "because there are not many in that group and you would kill their incentive." In other words higher corporate taxes and higher income taxes on the personally wealthy have reached the saturation point, and further taxation would mean that investment incentive would be lost.

Mr. Munro did not say where "middle income" starts — or stops. Middle-income citizens whether their money comes from private investment or from wages, have been providing by far the largest proportion of taxes for years. If they are to be taxed ever more heavily, they too will reach the point of diminishing return, where it will be no longer possible for them to save enough to invest in Canadian enterprise — investment that is absolutely necessary if the country is to maintain its economic health at the same time that it prevents further foreign takeover of the economy.

Killing the goose that lays the golden eggs only assures that there won't be any more golden eggs. Social programs which cost far beyond the nation's capacity to afford, will suffer along with the rest of us if taxation reaches the point where incentive is destroyed.

Women's Duty

London Free Press

The province should close the legal escape hatch that unfairly allows women to avoid jury duty . . .

The law requires all qualified men to serve on juries when called. They may be excused only if they have a valid reason.

The same provincial statute also requires women to serve, but Section 4 dilutes the intent of the act by permitting them to excuse themselves for a period of a year without so much as a reason.

To make it easy for a woman to get out of jury duty, the law even requires that the exemption form be delivered to her along with the summons . . .

One way to ensure that women are fairly represented on Ontario juries in the future is to repeal Section 4 of the act. That will force women to provide a valid reason for skipping jury duty just the same as men.

How Pleased

We humans are always ready to complain, but this time I want to say how very pleased over the years I have been with the service our paper boys have given us. I am sorry for their sake the paper is later now. To me it makes no difference, but I do feel sorry for our boys. They are so late now getting home for their supper. Norman Dyck was our paper boy for quite some time and I never once lost a paper.

Dale Kenyon is now bringing my paper and seems to be a very nice boy, but this winter will tell the story and I'm wishing him luck.

I enjoy the Times and have done for some 40 years. I shall miss Art Mayse, but I wish him well. I was visiting at Stories Beach when he moved up. — Irene Orr, Shawnigan Lake.

'Politics of Affluence' in Europe

By BERNARD D. NOSSITER
The Washington Post

LONDON — The new political currents in Western Europe have now caught up with such diverse figures as Jacques Chaban-Delmas, Reginald Maudling and Karl Schiller.

At first glance, they appear to have little in common except for the fact that they are prominent politicians in some sort of trouble. Chaban-Delmas has been forced out as premier of France; home secretary Maudling is under fire in Parliament for alleged conflicts of interest; Schiller has sent in his resignation as West Germany's minister of economics and finance.

But a common thread connects all three. One way or another, their plight reflects a growing voter discontent over the distribution of incomes in affluent Western Europe.

Dividing the Pie

A persistent inflation that wipes out wage gains is making electorates everywhere in the old world far less tolerant of political leaders and their personal foibles. This is a new phenomenon and it is generally not well understood or articulated. But it exists and underlines the warning of one of Europe's most acute economists who predicted in private at the end of last year:

"The decade of the nineteen seventies will be marked by social unrest in the wealthy countries because of the way in which the income pie is shared. Ordinary workers will no longer tolerate the disproportionate share going to a relatively narrow group at the top. They will insist on a fairer sharing of the fruits of affluence."

Ever since Western Europe completed its reconstruction 20 years ago, pocketbook politics have been dominated more or less by two relatively simple requirements: the government of the day merely had to assure high levels of employment and rising gains in income that advanced workers from bicycles to motorbikes to small cars.

This, however, is no longer enough. There is now a muted but increasingly insistent demand for equity, and a growing impatience with politicians who are thought to line their own pockets or promote the fortunes of others who do.

The ouster of Chaban-Delmas is the most glaring example. He was found personally exploiting France's tax loopholes, brushing off payola for personalities in France's state television and protecting ministers making private fortunes by bending the building codes.

Not long ago, these would have been regarded as venial sins, tout a fait normal for a French politician. Some observers even assured everyone that this was part and parcel of French politicial life and only marginally damaging.

But most Frenchmen, like most Britons and Germans no longer accept these things; what was tolerable in the past is so no more.

President Georges Pompidou is shrewd enough a politician to sense this. With an election looming ahead, he dumps Chaban-Delmas and replaces him with a symbol of what was thought to be a more austere era, the arch Gaullist Pierre Messmer.

Maudling is one of the most engaging men anywhere in public life and would appear to be a storm centre for the most trivial of reasons. When his conservative party was not in power, Maudling took on the chairmanship of a firm building roads and hospitals abroad. Instead of pay, he directed an architect who worked with the construction company to give $53,000 to Mrs. Maudling's pet charity. The architect has now gone bankrupt and his payments to the Maudling charity, two other members of Parliament and a ranking civil servant have come to light.

Regime Plagued

The leader of the tiny Liberal Party, Jeremy Thorpe, has formally called on the government for an immediate inquiry into the whole affair.

Again, the point is the same: what might have been overlooked a few years ago is politically charged today. Privilege, another way of saying maldistributed income, is the issue.

Indeed, on a far less personal scale, this issue is plaguing Prime Minister Edward Heath's regime. His economic plans have been knocked askew because labor unions have been insisting on and winning pay increases of from ten to 20 per cent. There is no point in urging unions to act with restraint in a world where their members think the pie is being unfairly shared. The Maudling affair will intensify this mood.

No taint of scandal attaches to Schiller, the German academic who has been directing the economy for Chancellor Willy Brandt. He resigned, in fact, over an old fashioned, 19th century stance. His advice against controls over capital inflows was rejected.

But Schiller has really offered to give up his post because he, like almost everyone else in the West, has not been able to contain an inflation that further widens the disparities in income. His advice on capital controls was rejected precisely because inflows of hot money increase the German money supply and stimulate pressure on prices.

Over the last two years, German consumer prices have risen 10 per cent. This is mild compared to Britain's raging 17 per cent. But Germans are especially sensitive to inflation after their disastrous experience of the 'twenties and 10 per cent is not good enough anywhere.

For the wealthy, inflation is an opportunity. They own things — real estate and shares — and its value rises along with the other prices. Corporate executives, paid with fancy cars, ever-enlarging expense accounts and other perquisites in kind, also do well in inflation. But workers, whose income consists of hourly pay, see their gains eroded by the rising prices, and the disparity increases the tensions.

German political observers noted that Brandt's biggest handicap in the recent elections in Baden-Wurttemberg was Schiller and inflation. In the national vote next fall a Schiller, like a Chaban-Delmas, becomes expendable.

It is no good telling ordinary citizens that the outsized wage demands of unions account for the inflation that further widens the gap between incomes. The only way they know to close it is by seeking higher pay.

It is equally useless to say that everyone tries to avoid taxes. Ordinary citizens in Western Europe can't because, as in the United States, taxes are withheld directly from their pay, and the loopholes are available only to those who own property or are paid in kind.

A few of the brighter politicians here have caught on to the new strains. Ten days ago, Roy Jenkins, the former deputy leader of the Labor Party, delivered a major speech, saying:

Combat Inequality

"Any policy to combat inflation must combat inequality wherever it is found and one prong of such a policy must be to prevent those already well placed from becoming better off."

The frequent strikes in Italy and England, the resignations of Schiller and Chaban-Delmas, the Thorpe demand for an inquiry into high placed conflict of interest, all reflect what politics here is now about. It is the politics of affluence seen to be unfairly shared.

Vietnam Indifference
The Real U.S. Tragedy

By ANTHONY LEWIS
The New York Times

The reconnaisance techniques developed by the United States in Vietnam are especially remarkable in their selective capacity. They can count the number of furnaces in a steel mill hit by American planes, but they do not see bombed hospitals or schools or houses.

Thus, in the same week that President Nixon said he would allow bombing only of military targets in North Vietnam, correspondents in Hanoi saw the damage done to the Bach Mai Hospital — a large hospital about a mile from the centre of Hanoi. The Agence France-Presse correspondent wrote:

"About thirty bombs fell right on the hospital shortly before 9 a.m. One, weighing approximately one ton, dug a crater of a circumference of forty feet. Beds and wheelchairs were broken, operating rooms damaged, electronic control equipment in shambles, and everywhere glass splinters and heaps of plaster."

The president also gave assurances at his press conference that he had given orders not to hit the dikes of North Vietnam. The next day the A.F.P. correspondent visited Phy Ly, forty miles south of Hanoi, and reported that a dike there had been demolished by American aircraft. He said he saw destroyed sluice gates, houses bombed nearby and bomb craters being filled by women with their hands.

Civilian damage of that kind may of course be accidental. What is so chilling is the cynicism of American officials in refusing to recognize that it happens — for whatever reason. That is a pose, it should be said, that has been maintained through both the Johnson and Nixon administrations.

But it is not even necessary to weigh the damage to hospitals and dikes and other particular civilian targets in order to form a conclusion about the nature and effect of the bombing in North Vietnam. The official destruction claims by the U.S. command in Saigon say quite enough.

One day a spokesman says that the bombers have destroyed North Vietnam's entire steel-making capacity. Another day a colonel says that U.S. bombs have wrecked three-quarters of the country's electric power potential; according to Reuter, the colonel cites the bombing techniques used against the power plant as bringing the science of destruction to a new peak of refinement.

Those two examples illustrate what is now the stated bombing policy of the United States: to hit broadly defined industrial as well as direct military targets in North Vietnam. The bombs and naval shelling have accordingly destroyed textile mills and coal mines and factories of all kinds as well as most of the bridges and railways and storage depots of the country.

In short, it is strategic bombing of a most thorough and intense kind. Strategic bombing is supposedly designed for use against an industrial power, such as Germany in World War II. What makes it so noteworthy now is that it is being used against a largely peasant country with the barest beginnings of industrial development.

Most Americans thought it grotesque and horrifying when Gen. Curtis LeMay spoke in 1965 of bombing the North Vietnamese "back to the Stone Age." But something very like that is happening right now. Two weeks ago it was said that 60 per cent of North Vietnam's industry, such as it was, had been knocked out.

Except perhaps in the centre of Hanoi, urban and industrial targets above ground must be just about exhausted. Le Monde's highly respected correspondent in Saigon, Jean-Claude Pomonti, wrote recently: "North Vietnam is returning to the Stone Age at a gallop."

To all appearances most Americans are now indifferent to our destruction of North Vietnam. In a way that indifference is worse than the damage itself, worse even than the official cynicism about it.

How can Americans, who were always the most generous and sympathetic of people, close their eyes to their own government's methodical, remorseless savaging of a small country's economy and life? The answer must lie not only in weariness with this war but in an inability to understand what bombing and shelling mean. American civilians have never had to live under bombardment. A month of life as the North Vietnamese live it, even a few days, would make remoteness impossible.

In the long run, Americans will not be able to keep the facts at arm's length. History will remember. In due course our children will ask as German children did: What was the reason for the terror? What did America expect to gain? Where were you?

A Defence of Pelletier

By DOUGLAS FISHER

OTTAWA — It was an odd rebuke given Gerard Pelletier by Mr. Trudeau over the predominance of French over English at the Dominion Day ceremonies in Ottawa.

The Prime Minister bypassed the normal escape route of politicians after a boob. He did not drag out the previous record to evade the indignation of the English language folk in Ottawa who were affronted by a program almost wholly in French.

I can remember previous Dominion Day programs in which only a smidgin of French was included. No one complained after those occasions.

It was an error, a mistake, said Mr. Trudeau, Mr. Pelletier, he thought had done "rather well" as Secretary of State these past four years. He said (and later said that it was partially in jest) that he would move Mr. Pelletier to another portfolio after the next election.

Even in fun, it is unusual for a prime minister to indicate he plans to shift a minister. Apologies have not rolled easily out of Mr. Trudeau. Indeed, they have been rarer than public castigations of his ministers. Since 1968 he has pulled a number of them up, including Bob Andras, John Munro, Jean Marchand, Joe Greene and Eric Kierans. This is the first time he has been so rough with the man who is usually assumed to be his closest friend in politics.

On his part, Mr. Pelletier has not fudged on the goof, nor has he seemed rattled at the indication that the prime minister plans to move him.

Not enough of us have noticed how quietly Mr. Pelletier has gotten through the past four years in what is potentially the most controversial ministry of all.

It was under Mr. Pearson, and when Maurice Lamontagne was Secretary of State that this ministry became the grab-bag Ministry of Culture.

Although Mr. Lamontagne was sidetracked later into the Senate because of the embarrassments caused by his private arrangements for purchasing furniture (the scandal days) he was in hot water many times over matters concerning the Canada Council, the CBC, the translation bureau, the flag, the film industry, the Mr. Pearson film, etc. All this in a little over a year in the job.

Mr. Lamontagne was succeeded by Judy Lamarsh. Remember the controversies she got into in this post — bilingualism, Seven Days, the CBC's "rotten management," citizenship!

When you appreciate that Mr. Pelletier has had additional matters thrust on him — the Company of Young Canadians, assorted youth programs, responsibility for the official languages programs, a mix of ethnic and heritage items plus delicate dealing with the Francophone countries, at the same time Quebec has been pushing its arrangements with them — the wonder is that he has done so well.

And this, through a period when both the English MPs of his own party and many in the press gallery, have tended to see him as a scheming, dangerous fellow with too much influence on the prime minister.

Mr. Pelletier did not have Mr. Trudeau's advantages as a boy. His father was a railway worker in a small town. It was more his own scholarly capacities than family means which took him through a higher education and into journalism. The breadth of his cultural interests are much wider than Mr. Trudeau's. Indeed, they are extraordinary for a politician.

Further, he has none of the combativeness, nor does he take any of the personal pleasures which his two old associates, Trudeau and Marchand, get as political figures. While all three have been denigrated by the younger intellectuals in Quebec, the criticism and contempts shown towards Mr. Pelletier has been more fierce. One may guess that this has hurt him more than his colleagues, judging by the candid book he wrote to explain why he supported the War Measures Act during and after the October crisis.

It is my individual opinion, one on which I would find few supporters on Parliament Hill, that Mr. Pelletier has been a remarkably successful minister, and not only because he has kept a fairly smooth surface over some extraordinary difficult subject and administrative areas.

He hasn't run for cover on the youth programs, nor ducked away from the commitments in support of social action groups in his department. He has resisted the temptation to push either the CRTC or the CBC around. In the cultural areas like the arts, films, museums and libraries, he has been more positive than neutral and safe.

Mr. Pelletier has never leaned publicly on his closeness to Mr. Trudeau. Rather, he ignores it, and if questioned about it, goes out of his way to emphasize that he is a colleague and follower, and not an intimate or crony. There are many poorer ministers and few better.

Odusa, Cherokee Neck and Neck

The Seattle ketch Odusa continued to lead the fleet in terms of real time Wednesday and was in a good position to beat out her pint-size competitor Cherokee on corrected time with only 520 miles to go in the Victoria to Maui race.

Odusa, with veteran owner-skipper Eric Cahn, president of a dental laboratories, at the helm, made a run of 240 miles for an average speed of 10 knots as she raced 200 miles ahead of the fleet.

Odusa, Greek for tooth, was biting her way through the Pacific at a clip which had her 1½ days ahead of the position held by the Vancouver yacht Graybeard at this stage of the 1970 race. Graybeard, the winner in 1970, is not in the fleet of 16 boats this year.

Until now, it appeared as if the tiny 32-foot Cherokee — a berthmate of 53-foot Odusa at the Corinthina Yacht Club — would have no trouble taking the over-all victor's prize.

But Cherokee, under owner-skipper William Black, 44, and a four-man crew including his daughter Ann, 22, made only 170 miles Wednesday to the 240 miles wracked up by Odusa. If their respective rates of progress continue in this way, Cherokee will be hard put to beat out her larger competitor.

Currently, Nautical II of Seattle is second in the fleet, 200 miles behind Odusa. Another 50 miles back were Co-Motion, Cherokee and Satin Doll, all of Seattle, in that order. The Seattle yacht Red Dog, a member of this group, did not report.

Lost Ticket Man Will Collect Prize

DUBLIN (Reuter) — A Canadian will collect a $120,000 jackpot in the Irish Sweepstakes even though he has lost the winning ticket, it was disclosed here Tuesday.

The dilemma of the winner, William T. Armstrong, 61-year-old logger of Badger, Nfld., came to light following the July 1 running of the Irish Derby on which the sweepstake is based.

Armstrong held a winning ticket on Derby-winning Steel Pulse but he was unable to find it and could not remember the man who sold the ticket to him.

He said if Armstrong can provide proof of identity, the money will be handed over.

Welfare Fraud Checked

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city welfare department and the police fraud squad are investigating more than 400 complaints of welfare fraud.

Walter Boyd, city welfare administrator, said Wednesday his department's fraud detail has 50 cases in various stages of investigation. The police fraud squad is investigating 66 cases, some of which have been under investigation since last year. A police spokesman said warrants are out for the arrest of three persons and seven other cases have been put before the courts.

He said most complaints involve persons either collecting welfare cheques under more than one name or persons failing to declare other income.

Vancouver currently has about 20,000 welfare cases.

More for Elderly

VANCOUVER (CP) — Federal Conservative candidates in British Columbia are calling for a $100 per month pension for senior citizens, John McDonald, the PC candidate in Vancouver Centre said Wednesday. He said the B.C. Conservative candidates' caucus supports an immediate increase to $100 to compensate for inflation losses since 1964.

Union Bid Fails

MACKENZIE (CP) — The Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada Wednesday said workers at the British Columbia Forest Products complex here have rejected a certification bid by the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

Fred Mullin, president of the Pulp and Paper Workers, said the vote, conducted by the labor relations board, was 151 in favor of his union and 56 for the Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers.

No Support

VANCOUVER (CP) — Established Indian organizations have given no support to an Indian forum to be held in Kamloops next week, one of the forum organizers said Wednesday.

"We are trying to bring people together, which is what their aim is, but they won't support us," said Norman Larue, chairman of the Fred Quilt Committee, an Indian protest group.

He said neither the Union of British Columbia Indian Chiefs, or the B.C. Association of Non-Status Indians has given any assistance to the gathering, which is scheduled to coincide with the second inquest into the death of Chilcotin Indian Fred Quilt.

Arson Charged

KELOWNA (CP) — Gordon Dimsdale, 28, was charged with arson Wednesday, following a Monday night fire that destroyed a building occupied by Kelowa Radio Station, CKIQ.

Dimsdale, an employee of a separate company that occupied space in the same building, was remanded to today when he appeared in provincial court.

The fire caused damage estimated at $250,000 and put CKIQ off the air for five hours. The station now is operating out of a motel room.

Clerical Pay Report 'Blatantly Sexist'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Status of Women Council Wednesday labelled as "blatantly sexist" a confidential report published by the Vancouver Board of Trade which lists the salaries given in 36 categories of clerical jobs among 409 member firms.

Merran Acaster, a council member, said the 32-page report is called "Clerical Salary Survey, Vancouver Area—February, 1972—Earned Rates."

She said that under each of the 36 categories, the average salaries paid are divided into two groups: Those paid to male employees and those paid to female employees for the same job.

"The report is blatantly sexist," she said. "Not only are women not getting equal pay for equal work, but employers are being given a guide on how to do this."

Weekend Talks Set In Construction Tie-Up

A spokesman for the six unions holding out in their contract dispute with Construction Labor Relations Association said today further talks with CLRA are likely to be held this weekend, with the six unions bargaining as one.

John Schibli, a Victoria carpenters' union official, said CLRA and the six holdout unions have been meeting over the last two days drafting terms of reference for the further meetings.

Schibli said the draft of the terms is completed and was to be presented to the two parties this morning for approval. He said if the terms are acceptable, talks will likely begin this weekend.

The six unions are part of the 18-union B.C. and Yukon Building Trades Council. Twelve other unions in the council have already settled with CLRA but the remaining six are insisting on bargaining as a unit to reach their settlement.

A meeting has been called for noon today for the staffs of the six unions still without a contract — carpenters, plumbers, electricians, heat and frost insulators, cement masons and boilermakers — which Schibli said is intended to form policy to deal with any contingencies that come up.

"We seem to be on a collision course with the government," Schibli said, "and we want to make sure that everyone knows what is happening."

On Wednesday, B.C. Federation of Labor secretary Ray Haynes said the six unions are prepared for a confrontation with the government.

Haynes said if the negotiations which are now being set up fail to produce a settlement, such a confrontation could develop.

The B.C. Mediation Commission, which has held hearings into the dipute which only CLRA attended, is expected to hand down its binding decision on a settlement soon.

13 Die in Cable Car Fall

BRIG, Switzerland (Reuter) — Thirteen persons dies Wednesday night when a runaway cable car hurtled more than 2,000 feet down a mountainside and smashed to pieces against its own base station.

Two persons survived the crash — the worst in living memory in the Swiss Alps. Experts shifting through the shattered wreckage near the Swiss-Italian border were trying to pinpoint the cause of the disaster.

Officials said the traction cable hauling the cabin up to the village of Betten had snapped at the point where it joins the control cabin. In addition, the brakes failed. The eight-year-old car, capable of carrying 50 people, fell to its doom as a result of the multiple failures, officials said after preliminary investigations.

Police said one of the victims was tossed to his death on the mountainside as the car raced back to the base station.

The two survivors were taken to hospital. Their condition was not known and it was not clear whether they survived the impact against the base station or were thrown out of the car during its wild ride to destruction.

Pet Centre Closes

Owners of Victoria's Pet Adoption Centre said Tuesday financial difficulties are forcing them to close.

"We have never asked for financial help," spokesman Wesley Chowen said, "because we felt it would be forthcoming from pet lovers who feel as we do — apparently we were wrong.

The centre, which operates out of Kennels on Atkins Road, has been financed completely by the owner, Mrs. Eleanor Galinsky, who Chowen said "has been selling off her furniture to support the place and hasn't a cent left.

"While this venture has been very rewarding to us personally," he added, "we ask that no further pets be brought to our kennels."

Chowen said the centre still has many pets available which can be adopted until Aug. 9 when the kennel's lease expires.

Pay Increased

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Hudson's Bay clerk who complained to the provincial department of labor that her wages were less than those paid men for the same work has received a pay increase of 25 cents an hour retroactive to May 1, the Status of Women Council reported Wednesday.

Okanagan

The Okanagan Mainline Real Estate Board reports sales for the first six months set a record at $35.6 million, $7 million above sales for the first half of 1971.

IPC

International Paper & Co. reports earnings for the second quarter of this year rose to $26,900,000, a 27-per-cent increase from the second quarter of 1971.

Sales in the second quarter climbed to $540,790,000 from $495,940,000, an increase of nine per cent, the company said.

IPC said earnings in the first six months of 1972 total $47,070,000 or $1.05 a share, an increase of 30 per cent from the $36,112,000 or 81 cents a share in the first six months of last year.

Sales for the first six months reached $1,045,484,000 in the first six months of this year, up from $954,442,000 in the corresponding period in 1971.

Dison

Trading in the shares of Dison International Ltd. was suspended Wednesday by the Vancouver Stock Exchange and by the B.C. Securities Commission.

The trading is suspended awaiting a reply to a letter from the exchange requesting information on the financial affairs of the company.

Sidney Fowlds, company president, said he would send out a letter this week to the exchange supplying additional information on Dison's semi-annual statement.

Rain Takes $ Away

By AL FORREST
Times Business Editor

Joe and Ellie spent $32 in Victoria on Tuesday.

On Wednesday, when the rain didn't let up, they spent only three hours — and then left town.

They had planned to spend another $100 in the capital region.

Their Tuesday spending breaks down this way:

There was $12 for the motel room and $8 for food in downtown restaurants.

They spent the day taking in attractions in the Causeway area — anything that was out of the rain.

An additional $5 went for gas and $4 for miscellaneous shopping, including souvenirs.

As well, they spent another $3 somewhere along the line but they are not quite sure where. They put it down to miscellaneous in their budget.

They wanted to spend more here but the way it was raining Wednesday it seemed like it would never stop.

Joe and Ellie, wherever you are, come back. The sun has returned to our valley.

Record July Canadian dividend payments of $161.5 million have helped to push dividend payments made so far this year 1.2 per cent above the comparable figure for 1971.

Earlier, dividend payments had been lagging behind the 1971 rate.

Of this total, $437 million has been paid out in industrial dividends so far this year compared with $404 million in 1971 and $426 million in 1970.

Utilities were up this year, paying $217 million in dividends compared with $199 million last year and $193 million in 1970.

Dividends from trusts and institutions were slightly down from last year at $142.9 million compared with $145 million in 1971 and $136 million in 1970.

In the month of July alone, dividends from industrials, mines, utilities and trusts were all up sharply over the same month in the past two years.

The bright July picture compensates for a generally weak performance earlier in the year.

The figures were compiled by Bongard, Leslie and Company Ltd.

A British hovercraft will join the search for oil in the Canadian Arctic starting Saturday.

The craft, fitted with seismographic equipment, will seek oil in the Mackenzie delta area for Pan-Canadian Petroleum Ltd.

The craft will have two pilots and three engineers, can travel over land at 50 miles per hour and over water at 50 knots.

The surveys are expected to be completed by mid-August.

The battle for supremacy continues between Datsun and Toyota for number one spot in Canada's foreign car market.

Meanwhile, third place Volkswagen continues to slip further behind.

Toyota holds a narrow lead with 16,561 sales in Canada to the end of May compared with 15,879 Datsuns. Volkswagen sold 9,534.

Toyota's sales are up from 15,053 in the same period last year. Datsun's sales are down from 17,429 and Volkswagen sales are down sharply from 12,329.

While the Japanese cars are selling briskly in British Columbia they have scarcely made a dent on the eastern Canadian market where General Motors and Ford are dominant.

On a national basis GM has 33.6 per cent of the market while Ford has 21 per cent. Chrysler is third at 18 per cent. Toyota has 5.8, Datsun 5.6 and Volkswagen 3.3.

Route Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Energy Board Wednesday approved an application by Wascana Pipeline Ltd. to build a $5.9-million oil pipeline from Regina to Regway, Sask.

The 107-mile pipeline will enable Wascana to deliver crude oil and condensate from Alberta to the existing pipeline system of Butte Pipe Line Co. near Poplar, Mont.

The oil will ultimately go to markets in Montana, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Illinois and Missouri.

The rotary-engined* Mazda RX-2. "... not only the import car of the Year, but probably of the Decade."

That's what Road Test Magazine wrote when they gave the Mazda RX-2 their Import Car of the Year Award for 1972.

And they added "...our car of the year awards are given for a total concept, not just for an engine, however good."

Here's how the experts at Road Test rated the RX-2. "In all the world there's no car like the RX-2 for the sports car enthusiast with obligations.

The coupe fits a family with three sprouting children and the sedan will carry five people of almost any size in day-long comfort."

Performance? Car and Driver Magazine wrote: "... it will just about suck the doors off any other small sedan and give all but the bigger and more exotic sports cars a purple fit in a contest of straight-line speed."

And they paid tribute to the total car by saying "... clever and creative engineering is readily apparent in areas other than the power plant."

Motor Trend Magazine called the rotary engine "... more relevant to young buyers these days than any muscle car on the market. Perhaps with that rotary engine, it is the muscle car of tomorrow."

At Road and Track Magazine they praised the Mazda's outstanding value. "In comfort, amenities and standard equipment," they wrote, "the RX-2 excels."

So much for the experts. Now it's up to you. Go see the Mazda RX-2. Test drive the fastback coupe or smooth-riding 4-door sedan. Once you've felt the excitement of rotary power, you won't settle for anything less.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

Norman George Urquhart, 26, was given a suspended sentence and placed on six months' probation after he pleaded guilty to two counts of uttering forged cheques.

Urquhart also was ordered to repay $635 obtained with worthless cheques from Calgary banks in August, 1971.

★ ★ ★

Francine Elizabeth Britton, 18, was sentenced to 30 days in jail and given probation conditions on a charge of car theft. Miss Britton was ordered to stay at home with her parents, given a midnight curfew, prohibited from driving a car for 12 months and ordered to start a methadone-withdrawal program from a drug addiction.

★ ★ ★

John Dwayne Paul Cindler, 17, of no fixed address, was given a suspended sentence and placed on two years' probation on charges of breaking, entering and theft.

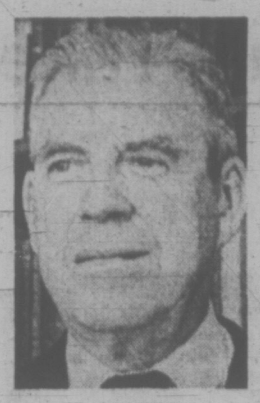
Cindler and a companion broke into a Wilkinson Road dance hall June 27 and drank eight beers before they caused $50 damage in a furniture-smashing spree.

Cindler earlier had stolen a camp stove and a 10-speed bicycle.

★ ★ ★

Two men were fined $350 for impaired driving when they appeared in traffic court before Judge E. F. N. Robinson.

They were Frederick James Quackenbush, 32, of 2870 Glen Lake Road, and George Guraly, 36, of 1711 Bay.



GAGE

Gage Visit

University of B.C. President Walter Gage, who laid the foundation for one of the most distinguished careers in British Columbia's higher education at Victoria College in its Craigdarroch days four decades ago, will be chief contributor to the University of Victoria's 70th birthday party July 24 in the Commonn Block, Gordon Head.

A young man in his 20s, Dr. Gage came to the College from Vancouver in 1927 to teach mathematics. Here he developed a new spirit in the established college, organizing student groups, assisting in administration and carrying his full teaching load. Among his students were men who later assumed senior office in universities across Canada, Dr. R. D. Wallace among them.

Returning later to Point Grey he progressed through offices of dean to eventual head of the University of British Columbia, retaining direction in student affairs and his full instructional load, for which he received the first Master Teacher's Award given by the university.

67 Charges Laid Against Cycle Gang

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — An Alameda County grand jury returned a 67-count indictment Wednesday against members of two motorcycle gangs in connection with a July 4 mass rape of two 17-year-old Vancouver girls.

Each of 13 defendants was charged with five counts including rape, sexual perversion and sodomy. Two also were charged with being armed with a blackjack or a gun.

★ ★ ★

Presiding Alameda County superior court Judge Robert Bostick ordered the defendants held in lieu of $100,000 bail each.

Deputy District Attorneys Wright Morton and Donald Whyte said the girls testified for two hours before the grand jury, recalling the defendants nicknames and some 12 hours of "horror" at the hands of 13 motorcyclists.

The girls said they were on a holiday to the San Francisco area when a man forced his way into their car at an Oakland stoplight July 3.

★ ★ ★

He forced them to drive to an East Oakland apartment where they were repeatedly raped and subject to a variety of sexual indignities during the next 12 hours, the girls said.

Grits Nominate Forces Man

A 47-year-old Canadian Forces commander was named Wednesday evening to contest Esquimalt riding for the Liberal party in the next provincial election.

Henry Donovan Joy, a member of the admiral's staff at Canadian Forces Base Esquimalt, took the nomination by acclamation at a meeting attended by about 50.

Joy, whose military career goes back to 1942 when he was enrolled at the Royal Canadian Naval College at Royal Roads, told the meeting he will resign his commission today.

He would have been due for regular retirement in 1975, Joy told reporters.

"This then becomes the only occupation I'll have," he said of his new political career. Joy also told the meeting he will be entering the provincial political field without prejudice.

He does not belong, and has never belonged, to any defined special-interest group such as management, labor union, or the official bodies of such professions as law, dentistry or medicine, he stressed.

Joy said one of his principal aims will be to establish direct communications between the constituency and the government, if he is elected.

The riding is at present held for the Social Credit party by MLA Herb Bruch, who has been nominated to run in the next election. So far, the Conservatives have not nominated in Esquimalt.

The New Democratic Party has nominated James Gorst.

Joy was born in Toronto. He is married, with one grown daughter who is married and lives in London.

He served in 1944 and 1945 with the Royal Canadian Navy and saw service on HMCS Uganda as part of the British Pacific Fleet. From 1946 to 1951 he was a navy fighter pilot, based at Dartmouth, N.S.

He returned to the west coast in 1953 and at present is deputy chief of staff, Commander Maritime Forces Pacific.

A brief bid was made to nominate Don Kerley, principal at Edward Milne School in Sooke, but Kerley declined the nomination partly because of a recent operation which demands he avoid any strenuous activities.

CHUM Purchases Radio CKVN

TORONTO (CP) — CHUM Ltd. has concluded an agreement to acquire the assets of CKVN, a Vancouver radio station.

Allan Waters, CHUM president, said the purchase, which is subject to approval of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, will be made through a company yet to be incorporated.

Ford wagons stop, store, hold, haul, make room, swing up, down and out for more people than any other wagon.

The 3-way doorgate swings open with the window up or down—like a door—or swings down as a tailgate. That makes the Country Squire fast and easy to load. A big help on a rainy day when you're loading the groceries. And the 3-way doorgate has proven itself on over one million Ford wagons.

The Squire includes lots of equipment you'd expect to be extra cost. But the 351 CID V-8 engine, 3-speed SelectShift automatic, power steering, power front disc brakes and power doorgate window are all standard.

You can choose from many options too. Like a vinyl roof, deluxe luggage rack, air conditioning, automatic load leveler, AM/FM stereo radio and a host of others.

The Country Squire is available in 6 passenger and dual facing rear seat models (a Ford exclusive). And when it comes to cargo, in just seconds you can convert the area behind the front seat into 96.2 cu. ft. of cargo space.

What's more, the Country Squire offers all the comfort, luxury and quiet that made the LTD famous.

The best selling LTD Country Squire is one more reason for Ford's reputation—as the Wagonmaster.

Shamrocks Burn Mann Cup Champs

By JACK KEATING
Times Staff

Waiting to buy tickets, hundreds of people swarmed out on to Blanshard Street, the programs were sold out by 8:15, and the Victoria Shamrocks punished the defending Man Cup champions. In one night yet!

This was National Lacrosse League action Wednesday night at Memorial Arena and the Shamrocks delighted 3,550 fans — Victoria's largest lacrosse crowd in four years — with a convincing 19-10 pasting of the power-packed Brantford Warriors.

"I don't know how the hell they got into third place," later muttered suspended Brantford coach Morley Kells on Victoria's surprisingly easy handling of his Eastern division leaders.

The Rocks had it all over the Easterners, who manhandled the WLA leading Vancouver Burrards 14-9 Tuesday night, and were never headed. The Irish raced into a 7-1 lead after 20 minutes and increased the gap to 14-7 after two periods.

'Charn Key to the Whole Game'

What's the secret? In coach Ed Kowalyk's head, it's Charn Dhillon and his ability to win faceoffs.

"As far as I'm concerned Charn was the key to the whole game," enthused Kowalyk later.

"Ivan Thompson and Ranjit (Dillon) played a hell of a game, but without those faceoffs they don't get the ball."

Dhillon grabbed 29 of 38 faceoffs and the 27-year-old veteran centre virtually monopolized the draw against Brantford's Bill Coghill and Gaylord Powless.

"He's a good draw man," admitted Coghill who arrived from Brantford just 15 minutes before game time "He throws his body in front of you and really I can't remember beating him once."

"That is the key," continued Kowalyk "He should get the star of the game, although everyone played will, without Charn these other things just don't happen."

With the ball, the Rocks were paced by talented Ivan Thompson who pumped in five goals and drew four assists to move to within seven points of Gord Frederickson and the league lead in the individual scoring derby. Dillon had a goal and eight assists.

Offence Right Down Ivan's Alley

"They play all offence," explained Thompson who prior to joining the Rocks last year played all his lacrosse in Ontario "I'm accustomed to playing that way really."

Young sensation Kevin Alexander, who won't be 17 until November had his second straight three-goal game for the Rocks.

The quick junior on call from the Saanich junior B's snuffed out a brief Brantford flurry scoring back-to-back goals in the second period to restore a four-goal lead after the Warriors had narrowed the gap to 8-6.

Mike Beaulac also scored three times for the Irish and Nirmal Dillon and Tom Somner both scored twice.

Victoria now is riding a three-game winning streak, have moved to within eight points of the Burrards, and of late are showing flashes of perhaps challenging for second place.

Brantford's only claim to fame Wednesday was goalie Bob (Buffer) McCready who gave the fans a buzz by moving up into the offensive zone to assist on four goals.

The Warriors continue their four-game Western swing tonight in New Westminster in a re-match against the Salmonbellies, who they bounced in the Mann Cup in four straight games last fall.

MARILYN, DALE WIN IN PNGA TOURNAMENT

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Medallist Marilyn Palmer of Kamloops and Dale Shaw of Victoria's Glen Meadows course were the only Canadians to advance to quarter-final play in the Pacific Northwest Gold Association men's and women's match play tournament Wednesday.

Miss Shaw beat Liz Culver of Seattle, 4 and 3, Miss Palmer defeated Terry Rowell of Yakima, 9 and 8.

Charn Is the One With The 'h' in His Name

Lacrosse, as it should be, returned to the Memorial Arena Wednesday night. So did the fans. And a Shamrock who helped to make it all work out for the best is the one sometimes delightfully referred to as the Dillon with the "h" in his name, Charn Dhillon.

This was the visit of the much heralded Brantford Warriors, Mann Cup champions, and Eastern League leaders, and so much excitement was generated even before the game that the police had to be called to get the fans off the roadway.

Apparently, it had been so long since they had been in a lineup they didn't know where to stand, so they blocked Blanshard Street. In the past four years not that many had showed up. Not since Detroit attracted 4,441 in 1968.

But if that was an early surprise the appearance of 3,550 at the game, more was to follow. And what did just could generate another crowd of similar proportions the next time the Shamrocks play.

For the Irish, oft-maligned earlier this year, and oft guilty of some shoddy doings, were at their finest against the Warriors. Suddenly, surprisingly, they came of age.

If Brantford could be excused for taking the Shamrocks lightly, they know better now, thanks to the 19-10 licking they absorbed.

At any rate, regular goalie Bob McCready didn't get the starting call against the Irish. Pat Kelly did.

★ ★ ★

This was Brantford's first, and most glaring error. The Rocks quickly recognized the affront, particularly Ivan Thompson, who previously had played in the East against some of the Warriors. And on his first real chance, he neatly ducked through the defence, and popped the ball into the top corner.

Before the perjod was over, he had done it again, and helped out on three others; Tom Somner had two goals, Ranjit Dillon had one and the Irish had a 7-1 lead.

A shock? You bet. To everyone!

For Brantford, it was out with Kelly and in with McCready, and would the real Brantford team please stand up? They did, and started to play, too, and in just eight minutes they had sliced the Irish lead to 8-6.

If disaster was near, nobody told the kid the Shamrocks had invited to come out for the game. Kevin Alexander, the younger brother of Ken and Frank, surprisingly pumped in two pretty goals, and the Irish were off the hook.

Shamrock defencemen Lonnie Restell later described Kevin as "the finest shot in town." In retrospect, perhaps, it should have been expected. Kevin practices almost daily, shoots at least 200 balls in a workout, and is the same 16-year-old youngster who hailed the Rocks out in their one-goal win at Coquitlam on Saturday night.

Oh, there were other shooters.

Ivan Thompson had a fine evening with five goals and four assists; Mike Beaulac got a hat trick and left the thought that he should be able to do it every night; Ranjit Dillon may have enjoyed a better performance, but not this year.

But it's probably unfair to name a few, and ignore the others who were often busy in the corners, battling for those loose balls. This was a real plus for the team. And what's more, the battlers were coming up with the ball!

Meanwhile the fellow first right in the dressing room, was a little apart from the general fanfare this time. For a change, goalie Skip Chapman had some goals to work with, and he made the most of it in a sound display that might otherwise have gone unnoticed in the glitter of the big score run up against the Mann Cup champs.

That made it a biggie.

But it never would have been that big if it wasn't for that guy with the "h" in his name. He's the fellow the Irish should be thumping the hardest today.

There's not much glamor, really, to be told to get out there, and get that faceoff, and then run off and let the shooters take over.

But that was the ambitious plan the Irish had fashioned for possible victory. Technically, it's called ball control. A team can't win without it.

And Charn D(H)illon, not to be confused with the other Dillons, although they shouldn't mind, did the job — almost to perfection.

If he lost more than one faceoff in the first 20 minutes, statistics didn't show it, and he finished the evening with 29 out of a possible 38.

"A hell of a job," said coach Ed Kowalyk.

Hull One of Campbell's 'No Exception' Victims

TORONTO (CP) — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, says no exceptions can be made to the agreement that only NHL players can join Team Canada, the squad that meets the Russians in an exhibition series this fall.

Campbell also is a director of Hockey Canada, the organization which set up the exhibit on series and which announced its team Wednesday.

The list of 35 players invited to training camp included Bobby Hull, but the former Chicago Black Hawks star in the NHL who has since signed with Winnipeg Jets of the new World Hockey Association will be unable to play.

"That players must be signed to NHL contracts was the original term of reference," Campbell said Wednesday. "If we make one exception, then we'd have to make more. It wouldn't be fair to the NHL teams to change things now because they've been very helpful in allowing their players to participate.

"Players must be signed to NHL contracts before they enter the Team Canada project in any manner. No players would take the risk of stepping on the ice withno contract to cover him in case of injury."

The ruling means that unless Hull gives up the $2.5 million worth of contracts he has with the WHA and the Jets and returns to the Hawks, Team Canada coach Harry Sinden will not be able to allow him into training camp here Aug. 13.

Sinden's invitations to all players stipulated that they must have signed NHL contracts before reporting to training camp.

Douglas Fisher, chairman of the executive committee of Hockey Canada, said the organization just wasn't thinking of other leagues—like the World Hockey Association—when it picked its international team.

And Hull's invitation from Team Canada specified that all players must have signed NHL contracts when they report to the training camp.

Fisher said Sinden's invitation to Hull had already gone out when the Golden Jet signed with the Jets.

Hockey Canada, the organization of government, business and hockey interests that set up the team, had included the requirement that players sign their NHL contracts in its agreement with the NHL last April. That was when the WHA's prospects were nebulous.

At the time, Hockey Canada was thinking in terms of a team picked solely from NHL rosters, Fisher explained.

"No consideration was given to the possibility that players would be chosen from other leagues, amateur or professional."

Other invited players have not yet come to terms with their NHL employers and some were reported considering WHA offers but Hull was the only one who had signed a contract with the rival league.

The remainder of Sinden's lineup:

Goal — Gerry Cheevers, Boston Bruins; Ken Dryden, Montreal Canadiens; Tony Esposito, Chicago.

Jacklin Sets Early Pace

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (CP-AP) —Tony Jacklin of Britain took over the lead in the British Open golf championship today with a two-round total of 141, one under par, but several of the top players were still to be heard from.

Jacklin, who won the Open in 1969, shot a 72 to go with his opening 69. His one-over-par round today included a three-over-par six on the short 13th hole.

Close on his heels was a young American, Johnny Miller, who fired a course-record 66, which included a double eagle, for a total of 142.

Miller's stunning double eagle came on the 558-yard, par-5 fifth hole when he holed out his second shot.

Peter Butler of England shot a 65 here six years ago but it was announced that Miller's 32-34 on the 36-35-71, 6,892-yard Muirfield links was being accepted as a record because the layout and yardage have been changed since 1966.

CASPER IN WITH 146

Other early finishers included Bill Casper, who shot a 74 for 146; Bert Yancey, 72, for 145, and Bob Charles, the New Zealand left-hander, 70 for 145.

Peter Tupling, a tall Englishman whose golfing career is studded with frustration and obscurity was two under after 30 holes. He was the first-round leader.

Jack Nicklaus, gunning for an unprecedented one-year sweep of all the world's major golf titles, had a one-over-par 72 and was in the same bracket with Miller, Gary Player of South Africa, who had a 72, and Peter Townsend of England, all with 142 totals. Townsend added a 70 to opening 72.

Nicklaus sank three birdies but took four bogeys and afterwards described his iron play as "pathetic."

Tupling, who said he "hasn't a chance" of winning after finishing his first round, fashioned his 68 with four birdies and a single bogey.

First round leaders:

Peter Tupling, Britain	34-34—68
Tony Jacklin, Britain	34-35—69
Frank Beard, U.S.	36-34—70

Field Goal Gives Ottawa Victory

Times News Services

Gerry Organ booted an 18-yard field goal with three minutes remaining Wednesday to give Ottawa Rough Riders a 19-16 win over visiting Saskatchewan Roughriders in a Canadian Football League exhibition game. It was Ottawa's second win.

Earlier the Riders had downed Hamilton Tiger-Cats, 22-21.

The opening score of the game was unusual and unexpected as George Reed, the veteran plunging fullback of Saskatchewan was pulled down behind his own goal line by Ottawa rookie Charlie Brandon.

This resulting safety gave the Rough Riders two points and set the pace for an off-color performance by Reed.

Terry Wellesley ran for a two-yard touchdown and Billy Cooper combined with Rick Casata for a 43-yard pass-and-run score for Ottawa. Organ converted both.

Steve Molnar caught a 14-yard pass from Ron Lancaster for the first Saskatchewan touchdown and Reed got their second on a one-yard run. Jack Abendschan kicked a 22-yard field goal and converted Molnar's touchdown to complete Saskatchewan's scoring.

The Stamps are defending Grey Cup champions and coach Jim Duncan says there will not be many changes in the Calgary lineup.

RAIN OVERCOME ON NORTH SHORE

Not even rain and flood condition on the North Shore could halt the B.C. 13-year-old Babe Ruth Baseball tournament Wednesday at North Vancouver.

Vancouver Inter-Community defeated North Shore Mt. Seymour 13-7 in the day's only game of the eight-team, double-knockout tourney.

Meanwhile, Victoria Cosmopolitans meet Coquitlam at 5:30 and Prince George takes on North Vancouver in winners bracket games tonight. Cosmos crushed Mt. Seymour 9-1 Sunday.

On the local front, rain for the second straight day washed out all local outdoor sporting activities, including the opening games in Area Little League playoffs.

Soggy and Unsettled

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Bigelow of Victoria chased Hank Mitchell of Vancouver's Langara Golf Club through a soggy first round of match play in the British Columbia Golf Association seniors tournament Wednesday and the two will battle it out in today's final.

Scores of the leaders were not immediately available following a day which saw a number of compromises made to the rain.

The compromises took several forms. There were a number of handsome "gimme" putts to avoid the problem of soggy lies.

Since the players couldn't decide when the match ended, some flights played the last nine holes with a deck of cards in the clubhouse. This helped explain the unavailability of a mathematical record of victories and defeats.

George Millin of Royal Colwood was the medalist Tuesday with a two-over par 74. His match score Wednesday was among the unavailable.

Potential Fire Hazard No Reason for Blockade

Don't give up. Summer weather is bound to return and then anglers, campers and others who pursue outdoors recreation away from the highways will be able to resume the search for fun in the sun.

However, when they do find the sun, they may also find a blockade eliminating travel in almost 90 per cent of Vancouver Island's forest land.

This blockade, in the guise of fire-hazard closures, is a prime example of the elimination of our rights to our lands. Instead, we are regulated to artificial mini-campsites along a thin band of the coast.

The B.C. forest service administers the closure of the Island by having companies lock access gates to logging roads that provide access to crown lands belonging to all British Columbians. To cap this, you and I have also paid for half of the construction and maintenance costs of these same logging roads.

★ ★ ★

Adding further insolence, the forest industry in the past has been permitted to continue to work in the forests even during high fire hazard. The only restriction might be an earlier morning shift, ending shortly after noon. Yet, you and I, the rightful owners of this land, are not permitted to use its fulfilling outdoor environment.

The fire danger arising from the recreational use of crown land has been greatly over-emphasized in recent years.

Information indicates that natural causes, particularly lightning, are responsible for well over half of all fires started in British Columbia's forests. Industry is also responsible for more than twice the number of fires caused by recreationists. In total, recreation seekers can be blamed for a scant 10 per cent of all forest fires in B.C.

This should be ample argument for you and I on Vancouver Island to have timberland during the peak recreational months.

Hikers, campers, hunters and anglers new to any area find themselves faced with the immediate problem of learning terrain. Their success and enjoyment will depend upon the extent to which they know the area they are travelling. This is a real problem for all, but particularly for the outdoors enthusiasts who like to explore and broaden their regions and experiences.

★ ★ ★

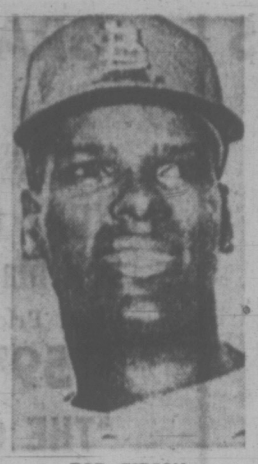
Preliminary exploratory trips can be very costly particularly when looking for points of access or when unknown prime recreation areas are hidden from the usual access trails or roads. However, available for a nominal cost, are accurate government topographic maps which put in perspective the country to be explored.

Ranging in price from 60 cents, upwards, they are available from the Map Distribution Office, Dept. of Lands and Forests, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

Truly invaluable and also available from the above agency are government photos. These show very specific access points usually little known except to local residents of that area. Lakes, streams, roads and forested areas are very detailed in these photos and are invaluable information when planning trips in the area.

They are available for almost all areas of the province and priced at $1.00 each. Also available are air photo mosaics of various regions at $1.00 which combine the numerous photos taken for a larger area.

A catalogue of the various maps may be obtained from the agency as well as directions for ordering specific photos. With the volume of air photos available however, I would strongly recommend a trip to the office to view the specific one you wish to purchase.



BOB GIBSON
. . . likes his rest

Gibson Not Wasting Time

UP International

At his age, it's no wonder Bob Gibson likes to get the job done as quickly as he can so he can rest his weary bones.

In fact, just a few weeks ago it appeared the St. Louis Cardinals ace was too old at 36 to pitch with the same effectiveness as he did over the last decade. He dropped his first five National Baseball League decisions and still was without a win to his name entiring the final week of May. But Gibson has bounced back with vengeance, winning each of his last nine starts, including a 7-0 shutout of the Atlanta Braves Wednesday. Is eight of those nine games, Gibson went the distance, and he has a total of 11 complete games this season, with none of those games exceeding two hours and five minutes in time.

"The man continues to pitch the same ball game night after night," said his young batterymate, Ted Simmons. "He throws the ball consistently hard. He minimizes his mistake and when he get behind he bears down. It looked like they might get one run in the fourth inning when Rico Carty led off with a triple, but he pitched like Carty wasn't ever there on third base and he got the next three men.

"This is the third year I have caught Gibson and each year he has gotten off to a slow start. This year when he was 05- I guess some thought he was going to bow out because of old age. But he's pitching the same now as he was three years ago. I see no variance in his fast ball and no weakness in his slider."

The victory moved St. Louis into third place in the National's Eastern Division, seven games behind the front-running Pittsburgh Pirates, who dropped a 6-3 decision to Cincinnati. The Reds maintained their one and one-half game west margi over te game west margin over the Houston Astros, who beat the Chicago Cubs, 10-6.

Elsewhere, the New York Mets beat San Francisco Giants, 4-0; Los Angeles Dodgers dropped the Philadelphia Phillies 9-5, and San Diego Padres edged Montreal Expos, 6-5.

In the American League, Boston Red Sox edged Oakland Athletics 7-6; Chicago White Sox beat Cleveland Indians, 5-4; Kansas City Royals tripped Baltimore Orioles, 11-4, in 10 innings; Minnesota Twins laced Milwaukee Brewers, 7-1; Detroit Tigers nipped Texas, 3-1, and New York Yankees beat California Angels, 5-0.

Gibson allowed Atlanta only six hits and struck out six while helping his own cause with a pair of hits, including his third homer. The game required only 1:57 to be completed.

Johnny Bench hit two homers to increase his league-leading total to 24 and Tony Perez had one homer as Cincinnati beat Pittsburgh in the battle of division leaders. Wayne Simpson gained his fifth victory against three losses.

Clarence Gaston drove in two runs with a homer and a single to lift San Diego over Montreal.

OPEN LETTER TO:

VICTORIA BUILDING TRADESMEN WHO HAVE NOT RETURNED TO WORK:

It is now ten weeks since the construction industry shut-down commenced—in fact three months since the first strike action was taken by certain unions.

Millions of dollars have been wasted in lost wages, lost productivity, and lost purchasing power for building tradesmen and contractors alike. It is useless to keep saying that everybody loses from strikes and lock-outs, when we go on accepting strikes and lock-outs as a way of life, and do nothing about it. If there is any cure, how can it work for our situation? Obviously the first requirement is to find some way that we can get back to work—under the terms of the old agreement, if necessary, until a new one is reached.

Much loud protest has been made by the unions about working without a contract. Surely the contract which served our purpose for the past two years can continue to serve us until we reach a new agreement. Those who tell you otherwise are irresponsible.

In fact, irresponsibility is the key-note of the whole dispute. Much has been said about C.L.R. attempting to take away conditions of many years standing. Has this happened to the twelve unions that have settled? It most certainly has not. Obviously there are a number of clauses in certain union agreements which are objectionable to employers. Mainly the hiring hall and the restrictive clauses which interfere with the right to do business with third parties. C.L.R. will continue to press for relief from these clauses, but it is a fact that as far as the carpenters' negotiations are concerned these clauses were initialed many weeks ago, and the union will admit this. Why then can we not reach an agreement?

Much has been said about C.L.R. attempting to reach agreements through the Mediation Commission. This is simply not true. C.L.R. has made every effort, and will continue to make every effort, to reach agreements without any help from the Mediation Commission.

Yet the most recent attempt at negotiations last week-end failed because one of the unions refused to come to the table and bargain with C.L.R., which is the accredited bargaining agent for all its members. This, in spite of the fact that the six hold-out unions invited the C.L.R. to bargain with them as a group, and reach a settlement which would put the entire industry back to work.

Are the six unions merely trying to gain a few extra pennies per hour, which will be lost many times over by the time the settlement is reached; or is there any other motive which can be explained or justified? These unions have been carrying on an illegal strike in defiance of a government Order-in-Council since June 14. School and hospital projects which were the object of so much concern by these unions continue to sit idle along with hundreds of other construction jobs across the province. Does this make any sense to you from a practical standpoint, aside from the fact that defiance of the law will destroy everything which democracy stands for?

What is wrong with the principle of binding arbitration? It is certainly less preferable than agreements voluntarily reached by direct negotiations, and C.L.R. is in full agreement on this point. However, direct negotiations have failed up to this time, and will continue to fail unless the unions involved adopt a more responsible attitude.

Where direct negotiations fail, there are but two alternatives—strikes and lock-outs, or binding arbitration to settle the dispute. Whatever objection you may have to binding arbitration, you have only to ask the simple question, is it better or worse than the alternative which we are presently experiencing? Common sense can solve most things, and the time has come for more common sense to be used in the construction industry dispute.

Al McLaren Scores Four For Saanich

Al McLaren popped in four goals and Steve Bowack collected three more Tuesday night as Saanich Charman Pacific Realty dumped Victoria Island Pacific Oil 15-6 in a Vancouver Island Intermediate Lacrosse League game at Memorial Arena.

Wes Zapotichny and Mike Jacobs each added a pair of goals and Dunc Jacobs, Angus Stewart, Don Frenette and Denis Farcoe scored singles for Charmans, who used a seven-goal splurge in the second period to take a 12-3 lead.

'Bureaucratic Bungling?'

By The Canadian Press

Despite assurances from Ottawa, officials of several Canadian amateur sports organizations remain skeptical about a promise that federal sports grants will be soon forthcoming.

A. J. Fraser, a spokesman for Sports Canada, the federal sport directorate, said Tuesday the amateur groups would receive the grants "within 10 days."

"We feel very embarrassed," he said in response to numerous complaints.

It appeared that administrative problems in the finance department had caused the delays, he said.

The Canadian Amateur Swimming Association was among the latest groups to protest. Secretary Alex Fallow said Tuesday in Edmonton that the CASA had asked Sports Canada for more than $100,000 for 1972 but so far "hadn't received a penny."

The association had already spent about $70,000 "and a lot of people across Canada are out of pocket," he said.

Earlier, in Edmonton, Geoff Elliott, head of the Canadian Gymnasts Association, said Sports Canada last March approved a grant of $32,000 to help send a team to the Olympic Games, but no money had arrived.

George Arnold, secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Track and Field Association, said in Toronto Wednesday that his group was in the same bind as the swimmers and gymnasts.

"The only difference with us is that I'm not getting excited about it," Arnold said. "I'm long past the screaming point."

Arnold said he believed the hold-up of the grants was caused by "bureaucratic bungling" and he would be happy if the $130,000 he's waiting for comes through by August.

He said he had creditors "right, left and centre," but could do nothing about paying them until he receives the grant.

"We run into the same thing every year. One year we didn't get our grant until October. Last year it was the end of July.

Elliott contended that unless the federal money is handed over quickly, coaches of the gymnastic team will have to resign and the training camp will have to be abandoned.

Marion Savage, coach of the women's team, had been using her personal funds to keep the team going, Elliott said, but she could no longer afford to do so.

Fallow said he had telephone contact with Sports Canada representatives.

"They told us they anticipated we would receive our grant in two weeks. That was three weeks ago. Now they say in about 10 days."

Firenza SL Sport Coupe

When you buy GM's economical little Firenza SL you get:

- An overhead cam engine that's much bigger than the engines in the three top selling economy imports.
- Front disc brakes that are power assisted.
- Your choice of either a 4-speed floor shifter or an optional 3-speed automatic transmission.
- Richly upholstered bucket seats.
- Deep-pile carpeting, padded armrests, padded dash and visors.
- And other luxuries like a cigarette lighter, rear seat ashtrays, full-length paint striping and an inside hood release.

You also get the advantages of dealing with a Pontiac dealer, somebody who knows what dealing is all about. And he knows that the main reason you're buying a small car is because of its economy. So he'll offer you a deal to match.

U.S. GRANTS $3 MILLION FOR HEROIN RESEARCH

WASHINGTON — The U.S. government is investing $3 million in research money to find a long-acting, non-addictive chemical that will block the effects of heroin.

Nine grants, totalling $2 million, were announced last week for tests on narcotic antagonists that Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, director of the White House's special action office for drug abuse prevention, said offer "considerable promise for use in both treatment and prevention.

"This represents a major drive," he continued, "to develop new therapeutic agents which will assist patients to rid themselves of addiction and avoid returning to previous drug habits once they have been rehabilitated."

They act by taking over the sites on the nerve cells in the brain that heroin usually occupies. If the drug user is high, the antagonist pushes out the heroin and occupies the nerve ending itself. This could produce withdrawal symptoms in some addicts.

The problem with all the narcotic antagonists developed to date — including the ones being tested under the new $2 million in National Institute of Mental Health grants — is that the blocking effect does not last long enough.

The blocking effect of one of the best of the antagonists, cyclazocine, lasts only 24 hours, said Dr. William E. Bunney, Jr., director of NIMH's division of narcotic addiction and drug abuse. The drug also produces side effects.

Naloxone, another promising antagonist, begins acting within minutes of being injected into the bloodstream. But its blocking effect only lasts for four to six hours.

But medical researchers at New York Medical College and Metropolitan Hospital Mental Health Centre have been able to profong its effects for up to 72 hours by combining it with another chemical, pamoate, which acts as a time-release capsule.

But the perfect antagonist, said Bunny, has to maintain its blocking effect for at least a month; be able to be taken by mouth; have no side effects, and not allow the patient to develop a tolerance to it.

Now It's TV That Bothers Fischer

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (Reuter) — Bobby Fischer, American challenger for the world chess title, is demanding the removal of all television cameras from the playing hall before continuing the championship series against Russia's Boris Spassky in the second game today.

World Chess Federation sources said this latest demand from the 29-year-old Fischer represented a clear threat to the continuation of the match as it directly contravened the Amsterdam agreement under which the 24-game series is being played.

Fischer lost the opening game of the match Wednesday night after walking out for 30 minutes in protest against what he considered to be the distracting presence of television cameras set up at the back of the stage to cover the event.

The cameras were withdrawn.

But the Amsterdam agreement provides for the presence of the cameras and Fischer now is taking the line that he has not signed the agreement and therefore is not bound by it.

The chief arbiter of the match, West German grandmaster Lother Schmid, said that if the American challenger fails to turn up within an hour of the scheduledstart of tonight's second game he will immediately forfeit it.

The television rights are held by American businessman Chester Fox, who is trying to arrange for a meeting between his lawyer and Fischer to reach a compromise, possibly involving the reinstatement of the cameras in towers behind the stage.

The Amsterdam agreement says television cameras will be allowed as long as they are neither visible nor audible.

Fischer walked off because he spotted the lens of one of the cameras and claimed it was distracting him.

Assuming that this dispute is cleared up, Fischer will be out today to level the scores with Spassky in the knowledge that a second defeat would leave him carrying a heavy psychological burden.

"It will settle down, Fischer said. The second game starts at 1p.m. EDT, with a maximum of 23 more games to be played.

The first game in the match began Tuesday, and Spassky adjourned it after 40 moves. In the resumed play, Fischer resigned after 56 moves.

Judge Just Won't Be Hexed

SAN ANTONIO — Judge John Benavides ignored the threat of being turned into a frog Wednesday and jailed Mrs. Juanita Vasquez Garcia for intimidating a prosecution witness.

Mrs. Garcia had been in the court all week during the trial of a friend for burglary. She had often fixed spectators in the court room with "the evil eye," described by the district attorney as a "flat unblinking stare."

She had earlier tried to hex the court room by scattering pepper all around.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — Howard Hughes, who stayed in this Central American republic for a month earlier this year, has acquired a 25 per cent interest in the Nicaraguan national airline, Lanica, it was revealed Wednesday.

Hughes, now staying in Vancouver, got the share in the airline with the delivery of two four-engine Convair aircraft with a capacity of 105 passengers each.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. Actress Rhonda Fleming and her former husband, producer Hal Partlett, were sued for $835,000 Wednesday by a Florida millionaire who said he was defrauded of money he invested in Bartlett's movie "The Sandpit Generals."

The suit filed by Glenn W. Turner said he had been talked out of his rights to the film after a disagreement with Bartlett over Turner's objections to "vulgar and profane" language in the script.

ROME — Gov. Ronald Reagan arrived from Madrid

REAGAN
. . . trip for Nixon

Wednesday for a five-day visit which will include meetings with President Giovanni Leone and Pope Paul VI. The California governor, traveling with his wife, Nancy, and son, Skipper, is touring west European nations for President Nixon.

NEW YORK—The Zulu king, Zwelitmini Goodwill Kacyprian Bhekuzulu, introduced on Wednesday a large collection of African art and handcrafts on exhibition at the New York Hilton. Accompanied by his queen, Sibongile, and others the 23-year-old potentate of Zululand will remain in New York for six days before visiting Los Angeles and then Tokyo.

BOSTON (UPI) — Chester Robinson, a bartender, heard muffled cries early Wednesday morning and went to look for their source. He traced them to a chimney at Paul's Foodland, next door to the bar.

"In here, man, in the chimney. Get me the hell out of here," a voice called.

Robinson called the police. The police called the fire department which partially dismantled the chimney and poured salad oil over the trapped man to make it easier to ease him out.

The man, Robert Flower of Roxbury, was freed after seven hours. He was not injured. Police arrested him for burglary.

CALGARY — Showman John O'Keefe brought his "laff and splash" act to the city 10 days ago, planning to open on the first day of the Calgary Stampede.

But he is still setting it up.

The problem was that he always played in areas with seating space but since this was not available on the Stampede grounds he ordered portable bleachers to hold 3,000 spectators.

The seats came with a blueprint but the pieces of aluminum were not marked, he said.

Sen. Hayden Not Director

The Canadian Press, in a story dated June 14 and carried in the Times, erroneously stated Senator Walter Hayden is a director of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

NFB BOOKINGS UP

MONTREAL (UPI) — Film commissioner Sydney Newman said Tuesday more National Film Board films were seen in Canadian theatres during the past year than ever before.

A record 16,675 commercial bookings topped the NFB's previous high set in the 1953-54 fiscal year, before the impact of television made its presence felt in Canadian theatres.

In 1954 there were approximately 1,700 theatres operating across the country, compared to today's 1,300.

Harvey Harnick, president of Columbia Pictures Canada, one of the NFB's distributors, said, "more and more theatres are beginning to recognize the quality of Canadian productions. There is no doubt," he added, "that the National Film Board is a world leader in the production of high quality shorts."

Good Samaritan Guise For Tourist Robbery

By DOUG MacRAE
Times Staff

What seemed like a friendly gesture to a tourist ended in 30 minutes of terror Wednesday afternoon for a young American woman.

Jan Marie Thompson, 19, of Kailua-Kona, Hawaii, arrived in Victoria aboard the 12:30 p.m. ferry from Seattle.

A friend who was to meet her didn't show up, so she started walking north on Douglas, headed for the friend's Brentwood home.

* * *

At the corner of Speed Avenue near Tolmie, Miss Thompson was invited into the apartment of Ivan Wayne Bell, 20, of 598 Speed.

Bell suggested the woman come in and change her rain-drenched clothes, after which he would help her get to Brentwood.

He held it at the woman's back, then at her throat, then pushed her backwards over a sofa and ran out with her purse and knapsack, containing $18 in cash, personal papers and clothing.

* * *

Other residents of the building saw the man running away and called police.

The knapsack and purse were found stashed under the stairs of Slumber Lodge, 3110 Douglas, half an hour later. Bell was picked up minutes later in the neighborhood.

He pleaded guilty in provincial court today to a charge of armed robbery. Judge William Ostler remanded him in custody to July 28 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

GAPING HOLE at the corner of Quebec and Oswego is the future site of Harbor Towers, a 15-storey apartment block which Ald. Clyde Savage said earlier will be a "great big box". The apartment aroused controversy last month when city council members angrily admitted they knew nothing of the huge project since it conformed to bylaws and required new zoning.

Critic Dismissed By Ambulance Firm

The other founding committee member is ambulance attendant Lynn Klein, who quit GCA in early June, expressing dissatisfaction with conditions.

Tuttle said he was given no reason for his dismissal but he's convinced it is because of the efforts being made by himself and others to improve ambulance services in the area.

"I realized there was a certain amount of risk involved, a certain amount of persecution to be expected. But the way I see it, if you believe in something strong enough you have to be prepared to face the consequences."

Tuttle said he and Klein do not fault the personnel involved in ambulance services.

Under a three-year contract, GCA provides the Victoria emergency ambulance service for about $60,000 a year. The contract expires June 30, 1973.

Knezacky said Tuttle was dismissed because "he doesn't qualify for the position as attendant."

Ald. Bill Tindall, chairman of the city's health and welfare committee, said today the city will investigate any complaints on ambulance services submitted by individuals.

Tindall made the statement after a closed meeting with city solicitor Terry O'Grady and department heads. The meeting was to deal with the question of whether to make public a confidential report on Garden City Ambulance Service.—

Tindall said it was decided not to release contents of the report until council had discussed it at a committee-of-the-whole meeting July 25.

Tuttle has been employed by the company since April 1971. He said his credentials include a B.C. industrial first aid certificate, C class; a St. John Ambulance first aid certificate, and a civil defence light and heavy rescue certificate.

He said Knezacky's statement makes him look "very foolish," coming as it does 14 months after he first hired Tuttle.

Tuttle said he and Klein had no intention of "becoming involved in any hassle" but they are determined to continue working for betterment of ambulance service conditions in the capital regional area.

"We have talked about the lack of safety but there are many other points we could have brought to light."

Tuttle and his committee have invited municipal councils, fire departments and others involved in ambulance service to attend a meeting in the St. John Ambulance Hall on Pandora at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A new film will have its premiere showing at the meeting. Made in Seattle, it's based on the work of the Medic 1 ambulance program in the Washington city.

The showing will be followed by a panel discussion.

Tuttle said Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace will join himself and Klein on the panel.

NEW PLAYGROUNDS 'COME TO THE KIDS'

That's the attitude of Victoria's recreation department. The idea is to bring recreation to districts where no supervised playgrounds exist.

First test for the mobile playground experiment will occur Friday at Bushby-Eberts park when recreation staff move in a hut and organize games, crafts, music, creative drama and field trips for boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 13.

No Work-to-Rule Says Police Union

A spokesman for the Victoria Police Union said today no implication was intended that city police may conduct a summer of work-to-rule.

Dermod Owen-Flood, lawyer for the union, said at a press conference Tuesday there may have been a suggestion that the police would work to rule this summer in their contract dispute with the Victoria Police Commission.

"No such statement was made either expressly or by implication," Owen-Flood said.

"The union has at all times made clear that its members, being officers engaged in the most vital form of public service, namely law enforcement, and being sworn to uphold the law, their position is that there will be no strike or other illegal slowdown no matter what the city may do," he said.

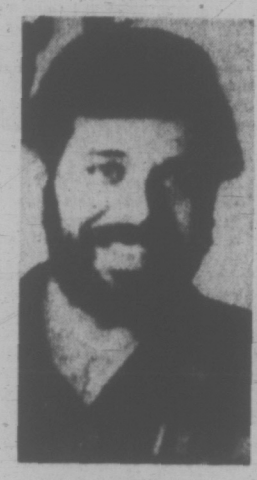
Talks between the police union and the city police commission broke down last week. The policemen are seeking a greater increase than the 3.7 per cent offered by the city over one year.

Owen Flood commented on remarks by Acting Mayor Tom Christie on the subject of police morale by saying "the facts speak for themselves."

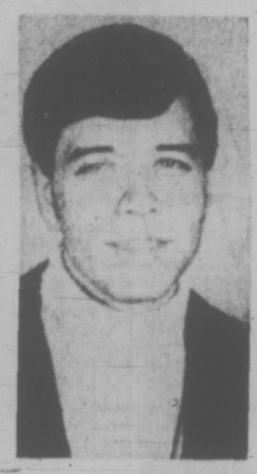
"A resolution was passed at the last meeting unanimously asking the negotiators to draw to the city's attention the serious morale problem that exists," Owen-Flood said.

The police feel that they are not getting a fair shake from the city. This is bound to have, and has had, a depressing effect.

"If Ald. Christie is still in doubt I can only suggest that he ask an independent investigator to investigate this very question," he said.



Burgess



Warrant Issued On Hermit

He is American-born Joseph Henry Burgess, 25, of Jersey City, N.J., also known as Job Week. The RCMP said he may still be on Vancouver Island or the B.C. mainland.

A warrant for his arrest on a non-capital murder charge was issued Wednesday and police forces across North America have been alerted.

Burgess, who attended a Jesuit college in Jersey City, is reported to have lived as a hermit in the woods for a year or two, said Cpl. Dan Creally of the Victoria RCMP general investigation section.

He is six foot two inches, from 150 to 160 pounds, soft-spoken, fond of making Biblical references and considered highly intelligent and dangerous.

Indications are Burgess left the Port Alberni area about June 21, the day before the bodies of Anne-Barbara Durrant, 22, of Vancouver and Lief Carlsson, also 22, of Sweden were found near Radar Beach, about five miles south of Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast.

Both victims had been shot several times in the head. They were found by a camper, the bodies still in sleeping bags at a rude campsite, and it was later estimated they had been dead one or two days.

Police are still seeking the murder weapon, which they have identified as a Gevarm .22 calibre rifle made in Saskatoon.

When last seen in the Long Beach area where he was camping Burgess had dark medium length hair and a trimmed beard.

But police suspect he may have changed his identity and now be clean-shaven.

Creally said police appreciated the help the public had given after an earlier appeal for information on Burgess' whereabouts. He urged anyone who knew of the wanted man's location to contact the nearest police station.

Deputy Minister Dies Suddenly

Alex Turner, deputy agriculture minister, died this morning in St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver after suffering a stroke Tuesday at an agriculture conference.

$10,000 FOR SOCIAL ACTION

Charles Barber, originator of Victoria's Cool-Aid, has received a $10,000 federal grant to subsidize a Resources Exchange project.

The project, organized by the Pacific Community Self-Development Society, will encourage active and sympathetic co-operation among B.C. social action groups.

PCSDS is a province-wide association of social action-social change organizations. There are seven chapters in B.C., each operating autonomously but co-operating in matters of mutual concern.

The people involved in the Resources Exchange project (REP) will act as information distributors for the seven chapters.

"One of our goals is to start a network of continuing information exchange," said Barber.

"Information will be sent to various communities throughout the province to keep the general public informed as well as people involved in projects," he said.

Another REP goal is to develop a working coalition among the chapters. Barber said if the government made a "bad decision" which affects the public, the coalition would represent the public "to fight in a manner that hasn't happened before."

"We take organizing very seriously," said Barber. "Social changes don't happen by accident."

He believes projects launched by various action groups could be more successful if they concentrated more on organization than money.

"You don't need very much money when you have people who are interested," he said.

The Rain Kept Coming . . . and the Tourists Going

Tourists with cars and trailers, boats and campers jammed the Swartz Bay ferry terminal Wednesday, washed from Vancouver Island by five days of unseasonable rain.

Today—after a little sunshine followed by less ominous clouds and an encouraging forecast—ferry traffic was reported as "actually quite light."

But soggy Wednesday, which produced record rainfalls elsewhere and close to three-quarters of an inch locally, also generated two-hour delays at the ferry terminal for visitors tired of having their fleeting vacations washed out.

The exodus filled the four waiting lanes inside the terminal grounds and reached back along the Pat Bay Highway. By 4 p.m. 16 ferries had carried away capacity loads of 150 vehicles and there was no easing in the line-up.

Tourists whose holiday visit to the island had been cut short were disappointed but not disgruntled.

"Rain doesn't bother me," said Ralph Peters of Calgary, who visits the island every summer.

"I don't think we'll come back to Vancouver Island," said Harold Hook of Dallas, Texas, who was leaving after an overnight visit.

"It costs too much money to get here, for what we haven't had a chance to see."

A terminal official said people trying to avoid a detour route into Vancouver from the Horseshoe Bay ferry terminal were adding to the backlog.

The department of highways reported parts of the Upper Levels Highway in West Vancouver washed out and traffic was being diverted to Marine Drive — a narrow, winding route into Vancouver.

But the official said most of the backlog was caused because people were in a hurry to leave the rain-struck island.

"And I don't blame them for that."

That last of a persistent pattern of wet weather off the Pacific is expected to pass tonight, bringing rain during darkness, the weather office forecasts.

While there's another disturbance on the way it's expected to take a more northerly track, leaving skies sunny in south and central B.C. by Friday afternoon. Temperatures will begin a gradual upswing.

Wednesday produced record rainfalls for July in Vancouver and Abbotsford with more than half the month to come. Twenty-four hour records were also set in Vancouver, with 2.03 inches, Abbotsford with 3.21 inches and Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast, with 4.97 inches.

Teller Quits, Charges Discrimination

By SUSAN RUTTAN
Times Staff

A local bank teller whose charge of sex discrimination has been taken up by the Status of Women Action Group has quit her job.

The woman, who has four years' banking experience in Victoria and has a family to support, wanted to apply to take the bank's management training program. Her branch manager advised her not to apply because she was a woman, she said.

"He told me not to bother . . .," said the woman, who does not wish to be identified.

"He said it's very good to want to get ahead, but the program doesn't take women."

The woman said she quit the bank because "I don't think it's going to get better, not in the next few years anyhow."

Kathleen Ruff, president of the Status of Women Action Group, said no legal action can be taken on the woman's behalf because there is no federal law prohibiting sex discrimination.

Amendments to the Canada Labor Code prohibiting discrimination in employment based on sex and marital status received first reading in the House of Commons in May, but died when the House session ended last week.

Because banks are under federal charter, they are not bound by the B.C. Human Rights Act, explained Mrs. Ruff.

"Discrimination seems to be the norm" in banks, said Mrs. Ruff. "There seems to be a few exceptional cases of which we are very glad (but) it's the standard procedures that we want to reform.

"It seems that regardless of ability, they assign all the low-paying jobs to women," Mrs. Ruff said.

The Status of Women Action Group has been operating an omsbud service, receiving and acting on complaints, for several weeks.

Banks advertising for people to join their management training programs place the ads in the male help wanted column of newspapers, not the male or female help wanted column, she pointed out.

"Advertising by sex, not by ability . . . makes a mockery of equality of opportunity," said Mrs. Ruff.

Banks contacted denied they discriminated against women, and said that advancement depended on individual initiative.

"A person's got to be mobile" to get ahead in banking, said a spokesman for the Bank of Montreal's main branch. Most women don't want to move to different cities, and must work their way up slowly in one branch, he said.

"It's usually a person whose husband is deceased who can move," he said.

The bank teller who complained to SWAG said she had been prepared to move from Victoria to become a management trainee.

"Not many girls want the responsibility" of a management position, said a spokesman for the Bank of Nova Scotia's main branch. "We can't get women to fill the jobs."

A Vancouver spokesman for the Royal Bank said: "If a young lady has the ability she'll be considered for any position." All banks said they had a number of women in management positions already.

Mrs. Ruff quoted statistics from the 1970 Status of Women Report. The report said that 89.7 per cent of female bank employees in Canada earned less than $5,600 a year; 27.8 per cent of male bank employees earned less than $5,000 a year.

"We want to bring to light whether they have made those reforms that the Status of Women Report urged them to make," said Mrs. Ruff.

The Status of Women Action Group has written the six major banks asking for information about the relative positions and salaries of male and female employees, for an end to discriminatory advertising, and for more opportunities for women employees.

134 Women to Attend Church Council's Meet

SASKATOON (CP) — The largest number of women ever to attend the general council of the United Church of Canada, 134, will be among the delegates when the highest policy-making body of the church meets in biennial session here next month.

But the possibility of a woman presiding over the council disappeared with the withdrawal from the election for a moderator of Rev. K. Harriet Christie, first woman in the 47-year history of the church to be nominated for the post.

The withdrawal of Dr. Christie, nominated by the Maritimes conference, was announced by the church in Toronto earlier this week. She said at the time:

"I believe my place at this time is in my present position . . . because the division is so new and its responsibility so significant for the church and all its participants."

Dr. Christie is deputy secretary of the division of mission in Canada. She formerly was secretary of the board of women, now absorbed with four other boards into the division of mission.

Dr. Christie's withdrawal leaves three clergymen and one layman in the running for the highest clerical position in the church. Other nominations may be made from the floor when the general council holds its first plenary meeting Aug. 15.

There are 450 delegates — called commissioners — to this 25th general council, nominated by the 94 Canadian presbyteries and six overseas. They represent 2.2 million members and professed adherents, the largest Protestant denomination in Canada.

Half are clerical, half laymen. Among the 134 women, eight are ministers.

They will discuss church policy in four areas of concern — Canada's identity, liberation, environment and future society.

Rev. George Morrison of Toronto, who succeeded Rev. Ernest E. Long July 1 as secretary of the general council, has said that on identity, the church will look at "options open to us as Canadians and sorting out the values which ought to govern our choices and actions."

Liberation would include women's liberation, that of youth, drugs and liberation in underdeveloped countries.

He said discussions on future society will probe the patterns and trends of the present technological society to discover where Canada and the world community is headed. The church, through general council, also would ask if that is where "we want to go and what alternatives there are."

Eat Your Way to Slimness

PARIS (CP) — A new book on losing weight recommends that people who want to reduce should eat as many meals as possible each day, including good, complete breakfasts.

Beauty and medical writer Josette Lyon says studies have shown that people who have the greatest difficulty losing unwanted pounds are those who regularly skip meals, usually breakfast.

Eight of every 10 dieters, she writes in 101 Trucs Pour Maigrir — 101 Tricks for Reducing — either eat nothing in the morning or restrict the first meal of the day to tea and a biscuit.

But the absolute minimum should be three meals daily, with six or seven the ideal. Each should be approximately the same size and have similar caloric content.

"After each meal," Miss Lyon explains, "one uses up calories keeping warm, digesting, absorbing nutrients. In eating the same quantity spread over three meals instead of two, one burns up one-third more calories. Each time one eats, the digestive process uses up calories. The balance sheet, at the extreme, is negative — one uses up 92 calories digesting a hard-boiled egg which provides 80."

As early as 1887, she writes, statistics indicated that hens which were fed once or twice a day, instead of being allowed to peck freely, put on weight.

TV Exercises Unnerve Dog—and Children

Normally I never watch TV in the morning. But normally I don't step in a five gallon bucket of scrub water or receive three nasty phone calls in a row, two of which were from perfect strangers.

By 10 a.m. I felt that it was time for a little sit-down. Since the only reading material handy was a melodramatic little medical epic entitled "Goodbye, Tonsils," I turned on the television. There sat a woman in a blue leotard with her ankles clasped primly behind her neck.

"Try touching your nose with the tip of your tongue," she trilled gaily. "You can't do it, of course, but it does tone up those naughty neck muscles."

I have news for you, lady. I've been able to touch my nose with my tongue since I was eight years old. Licking your nose isn't a particularly attractive ability. If I had my choice, I'd rather be able to play the clarinet. I mean, even if people knew that you could do it, it's nothing that you are ever likely to be called upon to do at parties. Even dull parties.

And as for toning up naughty neck muscles, my neck muscles have been carrying on in a shocking, even scandalous way, regardless.

"Get down on your hands and knees," she exhorted. "Stick your chin out as far as it will go, bare your teeth, and sway your head back and forth."

When I tried this, I upset our dog so badly that he shoved his favorite slipper into my mouth, crawled under the sofa, and sulked. Unfortunately, before I could drop the slipper, the children came home for lunch.

Now, it's a bit of a shock for a child to see the Rock That They Cling To, Their Invincible Buffer Against Life's Vicissitudes, obviously in the grip of some horrid malady that has reduced her to groveling on the linoleum and gnawing a red corduroy slipper. I suppose that under those harrowing circumstances they hade very reason to resort to shock therapy. I just wish that the bucket of scrub water hadn't been quite so handy.

Conclusive Proof of What Proper Feeding Can Do

(An editorial by The Globe and Mail)

Every intelligent farmer in Canada pays enormous attention to the proper nutrition of the birds and beasts he raises. Canadian governments and the livestock feed industry pay equal attention, constantly conducting research to improve the nutritious qualities of food products and keeping experts in the field to ferret out problems encountered by farmers and correct them. Good feed is a matter of dollars and cents when it comes to birds and beasts.

Canada gives nowhere near the same attention to ensuring that the human population of the country is properly fed. Yet, to take it at its lowest level, there could be a tremendous return in dollars and cents if Canada did.

Agnes C. Higgins, director of the Montreal Diet Dispensary, and her staff of dietitians, have since 1963 produced conclusive proof of what proper feeding can do. Canada has not been greatly interested in her work, but recently the report of herself and her colleagues on the Montreal experiment was one of five nutrition papers chosen for presentation to the International Congress of Endocrinology in Washington.

Mrs. Higgins based her work on the research of others which had proved, among other things: that it was risky to the baby to try to keep the mother's weight during pregnancy fashionably down; that mothers who were well nourished during the last 15 weeks of their pregnancies produced bigger babies; that bigger babies (7 to 8½ pounds are considered the best weights) tend to have more brain cells than smaller babies; that small babies have drastically increased rates of stillbirths, deaths in the first weeks and months of life, cerebral palsy, mental retardation and lowered intelligence. Functioning from this knowledge Mrs. Higgins and her colleagues went to work on some of the most deprived mothers in Canada, women from two public clinics in poverty-stricken areas of Montreal. Between 1963 and 1971 their study group included 1,725 mothers. Of these, 1,055 had five years of education or less, 1,164 were so poor that they were entitled to food supplements, 515 of the pregnancies were illegitimate. Not a promising group, one would have thought; yet only 5 per cent dropped out of the course.

On her first visit to the clinic each mother was assessed on the basis of income and diet. If her income was large enough, she was told what she should eat and given a standard mineral and vitamin supplement.

If her income was too small — and the incomes of 67 per cent of the mothers were too small — she was given food supplements of milk, eggs, minerals and vitamins.

All mothers were visited at least once in their homes. Mothers receiving food supplements were counselled every two weeks at the Diet Dispensary; mothers not receiving supplements were counselled at their regular medical visits to the clinic. All received the same medical attention as others attending the same clinics, except that their doctors agreed not to use drugs to keep the mother's weight down. The average food intake increased by 531 calories a day and 32 grams of protein.

The average birth weight for these babies was the same as for babies born to private patients in the same hospital. The record for premature births and for early death was as good as that for private patients, and significantly better than for other public clinic cases who had not had the diet treatment, and significantly better than the Canadian average.

It cost the public $125 to give the mother diet assistance, including the free milk, oranges, eggs and vitamins, for each of her normal babies. The cost to the public of maintaining a defective child throughout life in an institution or in the community is more than $100,000.

It would pay us a thousand times over — in dollars and cents — to apply Mrs. Higgins' good sense and compassion to all of Canada's poor.

The Younger the Better

When it comes to audiences, the younger they are the better, say members of a touring puppet show currently visiting Victoria.

The Fantasy Puppet Theatre group from Vancouver has been playing to Victoria's younger generation — the 3- to 6-year-olds — for 10 days, visiting day care centres and nursery schools.

"The 3- to 5-year-olds, they're about our best audience," said Bob Hattisson, one of the five visiting puppeteers. "As they get older, they get more critical."

Puppet show audiences are nothing if not frank, said the group. The children let you know if they like you, by laughing, waving, shouting, jumping up and down. And if they don't like you, they're not polite about it — they boo.

Playing to 11- and 12-year-olds is "harrowing to say the least," said puppeteer Gail Richards. "They start insulting us if they don't like us."

The group — Gail and Bob, plus Connie Kiener, Marilyn Crombie and Ken Grossman — is funded by a federal Local Initiatives Project grant, so it performs free. It has visited many child-care centres in the area, including the G. R. Pearkes Clinic for Handicapped Children one day this week.

The puppeteers performed four skits: Billy Goat Gruff, the Wolf Play, the Egg Play with Henrietta Hen, and the Kissing Monster. The show lasts anywhere from 20 to 45 minutes, "depending on how wild the young ones go," said Bob.

Fantasy Puppet Theatre got its original federal grant in February to perform in Vancouver. In June, the grant was extended until September on the understanding that the puppeteers would tour the province.

Victoria is the first stop. Next week the group will move up-Island with its two trucks, its portable stage, and its 30 home-made hand puppets. The members plan to camp out, if the weather is dry enough.

'Only One Way To Be Effective'

TORONTO (CP) — If women want an effective voice, they must join political parties, do their share of the work, and get elected as party members, says Grace MacInnis, New Democratic member of Parliament for Vancouver Kingsway.

She was speaking at the 23rd biennial meeting of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. About 300 women are attending the meeting, which ends today, representing 4,800 members.

Grace MacInnis

Mrs. MacInnis said women have been too slow to get involved in politics and now, with the interest in women's rights, are trying the wrong way to enter politics.

"One of the facts you've got to accept, whether you like it or not, is that politics today means political parties.

"There are women who believe they can go in as independents, but if you want to be effective, there is no other way but to choose a party."

She said she believes women could help change things.

"It's a hard road, but I believe we need women. I don't think women are cleaner and brighter and purer than men, but one of the fringe benefits of women's long conditioning with the home at the centre of her life can pay off if women have the brains to make it pay off."

Mrs. MacInnis also said that recommendations by the royal commission on the status of women are being implemented too slowly.

"There is no lack of machinery for implementing the recommendations of the report, but what you want to see is what that machinery produces.

"B and P should zero in on some of these big recommendations and find out how to bring the pressure to have them implemented."

She mentioned, especially, the continuing need for day-care centres and nursery schools.

Earlier, delegates to the convention passed recommendations that women be found to run for political office and to be appointed to the Senate.

They resolved that members of the B and P should look for women qualified and willing to be nominated for municipal office and give them support and encouragement.

Resolutions to be taken to the federal government recommended that more women be appointed to the Senate and that the $4,000 property qualification for membership in the Senate be abolished.

Women represent half the country's population, but only four per cent of the Senate, the resolution said.

Declining membership was a major topic of the meeting earlier this week.

Membership is down from 5,243 in 1971, despite the addition of about 500 new members during the year.

Women Outlive Men In Quebec: Report

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebecers are living longer than they did 10 years ago and the province's women outlive men by an estimated 5½ years, says a report of the Quebec Bureau of Statistics.

The report, which deals with the main causes of death in the province between 1950 and 1967, says that Quebec men now can expect to live until they are 68 while women will live until 74.

The report, made public this week, noted that women in Quebec not only live longer than men, but their life expectancy has increased more rapidly than that for men.

The report also said those between the ages of five and 35 face the greatest risk of violent death or death resulting from accidents. Heart disease or cancer is a more likely cause for those over 45.

Most people who live beyond middle age tend to die of illnesses of the central nervous system such as cerebral hemorrhages, cerebral thrombosis or embolisms.

The primary cause of death in the province is heart disease, followed by cancer, diseases of the nervous system and accidents, the report said.

Lesson Learned

DEAR ABBY: For the mother whose 16-year-old son pretends to be retarded to draw attention, and the father's encouraging reaction:

Obviously the boy is a good actor, but he probably is repeating himself, so I suggest the father do the following to inject realism.

Begin by using elastic bandages to tie the boy's elbows just slightly behind his back, so the elbows will remain bent. Next, wrap heavy rubber bands around the boy's fingers so that they may be used only with effort. Next, the father could have the boy lie on the floor where he could then wrap elastic bandages around his crossed knees. Then wrap more elastic bandages around his feet so they will be pointed inward.

Next, place a handful of large marbles into the boy's mouth, so he can neither close it nor control his saliva. Finally put a strap around the boy's head, and attach a rubber strip to it so the head is held up only with effort.

By this time the father is probably about to explode in anticipation of the boy's next performance. Then the father should instruct the boy to do some simple task, like turn on the TV and adjust the color and then try to sit in his favorite chair.

My analogy to simulate what it's like to have cerebral palsy (which isn't necessarily retardation) breaks down here — for the father is able to undo the boy's temporary condition. I wish to God that I had such power for my young daughter. — The Father of A.C.P.

A dozen recipes for the budget-conscious will enable you to serve a family of four a delicious, wholesome dinner for approximately $2.00, including dessert and beverage. Of course, not only do prices have a habit of going up, they also fluctuate throughout the year, from store to store and from region to region. Nevertheless "The Two-Dollar Dinners" ("Les repas de deux dollars") pamphlet can serve as an idea sparker and general guide, since the recipes themselves are excellent.

The main course of each of these dinners centres around a package of frozen fish. Here is a sample menu from the folder: Broiled Haddock Fillets Florentine, mashed potatoes, sauteed spinach, lemon wedges, caramel pudding, tea, coffee or milk. (The beverage for the family of four has been priced at 15 cents.) Send your request for a free folder to: National Sea Products Ltd., Suite 211, Shorncliffe Road, Islington, Ont. Please allow at least two to three weeks for delivery.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Forecast for Friday, July 14, 1972
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Communicate. Come out of yourself. Instead of seeking what is far away, face the here-and-now. Gemini and Virgo individuals will aid. Be confident. One who performs special services is not looking for anything special.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Relationships are intensified. Nothing now is apt to occur halfway. Another Taurean plays key role and so does one born under Libra. Accent is on creativity, children, ability to express special point-of-view.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Hold off — take your time. Applies especially to land, real estate dealings. There is "hangover" from past. Means you have not completed basic chore. Go back, review, correct — be sure you are not overlooking essentials.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't make definite commitment. You have authorities on your side. There is no need to be bullied. Capricorn is likely to be in picture. Accept responsibility. Rewards will be forthcoming. Stick to principles.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Protect assets. Don't waste, give away or fail to perceive potential. You have more appeal than might be imagined. Deal with Aries. Finish project. Outline program which reaches more persons more often.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): What appears to be opposition is not actually strong. Adhere to beliefs; stand tall for principles. Leo and Aries persons figure prominently. Independent, original approach will succeed. Act accordingly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You get ideas which can be applied in practical manner. Key is to be confident and to follow through to conclusion. One who doubts may merely be envious. Know it and respond accordingly. Look beyond the obvious.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Friend is hesitant about offering advice, confiding problem. Be understanding. Apply principles of tender, loving care. Accept social invitation. Leave details to others. Take broad, over-all view.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): See in light of reality. Avoid wishful thinking. You have work to do, a goal to achieve. Refuse to be sidetracked. Aquarian and Scorpio could be in picture. Get promises in writing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Be ready for change, special message, call from relative in transit. Gemini and Virgo are likely to be in picture. Accent is on education, ability to apply recent lessons. Keep confidential matters confidential.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Don't mix money and friendship — if you do, you could lose both. Stick close to familiar ground. Entertain at home. Be diplomatic. Make conciliatory gesture to family member. Check lease, policy.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low. Play waiting game. Don't push, force or chide. Seek better rapport with mate, partner and others who are close to you. Take time to be positive. Avoid basing actions on impulse or hearsay.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are inquisitive, attractive to opposite sex, active and will be travelling and making changes in October. You are a loyal individual. You usually know what you want but you don't always take direct route to goal.

Socred Railway Dream Now Tory Nightmare

EDMONTON (CP) — A Social Credit program of the 1960s has become a Progressive Conservative nightmare.

The Alberta Resources Railway was envisaged as a line that would open up great resource development of the northwest. Instead, it has developed into a money drain that no one seems to want.

Conceived by the Social Credit government in 1965, it was completed in 1969 and so far the government-owned line has shown nothing but losses.

To add to the woes, floods late last month washed out 37 miles of the line, causing damage that could run as high as $20 million.

The question now is: Who pays for the damage, the government or Canadian National Railways, which built and operates the line?

On the question of who pays, he said "it is very unsure."

OPTION TO BUY

CN — which has an option to buy the line— says it won't comment until damage assessments are in.

CN operates the line under a 20-year-lease agreement which stipulates that capital costs are the responsibility of the province, while the operating expenses are paid by CN.

But the agreement refers to the national railway system of accounts classification to determine what operating costs are and what capital costs are.

"And this is a very unsure area of definition," said Mr. Miniely.

When the Conservatives unseated the Social Credit party as the government of Alberta last year it started examining the ARR. It was noticed the government had been receiving bills from CN for items that "looked normally as if they were operating expenditures and the responsibility of CN."

A basic problem in the CN-government lease agreements is that they "have so many open ends."

AGREEMENT 'FOGGY'

"Under any normal situation if it was contracted by CN to build a railroad to a certain kind of specification and say engineering difficulties resulted in a washout, the immediate reaction is that it would be the responsibility of CN," said the provincial treasurer.

"But you go through that agreement and really it is so foggy it is difficult to determine."

The line started as a route from Solomon to the coal fields of Grande Cache at an estimated cost of $15 million. Then the estimates jumped to $40 million and then to $50 million as the decision was made to push it north to Grande Prairie. The final cost turned out to be $95 million.

With debt charges, the government now has poured in more than $125 million with little optimism that revenues will increase substantially.

Miniely said annual debt charges are $6 million and the time may have come for the province to examine how much extra public money should be spent for maintenance.

THREE CHOICES

One possibility — not suggested by Miniely — is to close down the northern half of the line between Grande Cache and Grande Prairie. While this wouldn't solve the debt-payment situation it would eliminate the future cost of repairs there.

What the washouts have done is crystalized the need for the government to examine three choices for the future operation of the 224-mile line:

—Get it into the hands of CN;

—Determine the cost of repairs and who should pay;

—Assuming CN would not take over the line, decide what it should do with it.

A report by consultants in February said it is unlikely CN will exercise its option to buy ARR unless there is an improvement in operating expenses.

In 1971, rentals from tonnage hauled over the line paid for about $700,000 of the interest charges.

A clause in the ARR-CN lease allows for termination of the agreement if deficits occur in three consecutive years of the first five years of the operation. A loss this year would be the third in a row.

ALTA. SINGERS BUSY OVERSEAS

LONDON (CP) — Alberta musical groups, in a swing around Britian and the continent, are performing before enthusiastic audiences ranging from 100 spectators to 10,000.

Four ensembles from the province now are in Britian and one of these plans a number of performances on the Continent before returning home.

The youth orchestra will perform in concerts in Britian until July 24 when members plan to leave for the Netherlands and Germany before returning to Calgary Aug. 1.

The groups are the Teen Tones from Medicine Hat, the University of Alberta string quartet, the Anne Campbell singers of Lethbridge and the Calgary Youth Orchestra.

Camera-Caught Robber Goes to Jail

EDMONTON (CP) — Richard Douglas Cartier, 16, whose picture was taken by a home made camera trap when he broke into a home last April, was sentenced to one year in jail and 18 months probation Wednesday.

The youth, who had no previous criminal convictions, pleaded guilty last month to breaking and entering the home of Arthur Rees. Rees had rigged a $7.50 camera to a burglar alarm following a previous break-in.

Judge W. J. Haddad said the gravity of the crime was compounded as the picture indicated Cartier was carrying a revolver. "I can only assume he was prepared to do harm or even kill anyone who challenged him."

The judge added that while the pre-sentence report said the youth had had a difficult life "the incidents of breaking into homes has become altogether too frequent."

Defence counsel Gerry Kitt told the court that although it was "disturbing" that Cartier was carrying a gun it was desirable that young first offenders be put on probation "from a rehabilitation point of view."

More Veterinarians

REGINA (CP) — Increased livestock production in Saskatchewan has created a continued demand for more veterinarians, Doug McArthur, deputy agriculture minister said today.

McArthur, in a news release, said there were 90 practising veterinarians in the province in June this year compared with 71 in 1969 and the demand will continue as livestock production "assumes a more prominent position in our provincial economy."

Changes Accepted

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Manitoba legislature gave third reading Wednesday night to a bill levying a 10-cent-an-acre tax on untapped mineral resources after the NDP government accepted a pair of opposition amendments.

The bill had earlier been sent back to committee-of-the-whole after J. M. Froese (SC—Rhineland) and Conservative members voiced concern about the effect it would have on farmers who have incorporated themselves. As it stood originally, the legislation would have levied the tax on any corporation that held mineral rights on 40 or more acres.

Record Crowd

CALGARY (CP) — The Calgary Stampede attracted a record Wednesday crowd of 83,920, breaking the previous mark of 81,517 set during the corresponding day last year.

After seven days, total admission was 590,829 compared with 591,426 in 1971.

Nurses Course Set

VANCOUVER (CP) — Special operating room courses are being considered for practising nurses to help relieve the present staff shortage in Vancouver hospitals, an official of the nurses' association said Tuesday.

"The idea is to offer courses to staff nurses in operating room techniques as a form of continuing education, said executive director F. A. Kennedy.

Miss Kennedy said the lack experience is one of the main of nurses with operating room symptoms of a general shortage of nurses in the province.

'Critical Need'

THOMPSON, Man (CP) — The president of Transair Ltd., Arthur Mauro, said Wednesday there is a critical need in Northern Manitoba for longer runways, better lighting and voice communication systems.

He said a royal commission on northern transportation that he headed made 20 recommendations to improve airports at The Pas, Thompson, Flin Flon, Lynn Lake afd Gillam but only five suggestions were adopted.

UNION WANTS SORTING JOB

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Postal Workers is investigating legal procedures they hope will force the post office to negotiate creation of a new class of employees to operate new mail sorting machines.

While the new classification has not been included in bargaining for a new contract the old one expired in March the issue is hanging over talks between postal unions and the federal government.

The government plans to install mail sorting machines in 15 major centres and wants to pay operators less than manual mail sorters now receive.

Although the government has promised that no employees would lose jobs, union leaders see the new class of employees as perhaps a first step in a series of mechanization moves that could lower the basic wages of postal employees.

The unions want to negotiate creation of the jobs, but government officials reject the idea.

The new classification is a matter for consultation only, a government official said. To the unions, consultation means being presented with a take-it-or-leave-it situation.

Nine 'Holidaying' Convicts Remain at Large

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — One of 14 convicts involved in the largest breakout in Canadian penal history told an instructor days before Monday's escape that he was "going on holiday."

Charles Boomer, 33, of Edmonton, serving 37 years for armed robbery, told one of his penitentiary instructors on more than one occasion on days preceding the escape: "I'm going on my holidays July 15."

Boomer was one of nine escapers still at large today. Five of the convicts who cut their way to freedom through two 12-foot high chain-link fences at Millhaven penitentiary were recaptured Tuesday.

A penitentiary source said the instructor thought Boomer was kidding.

SUSPECT PLAN

About 200 OPP officers and prison guards spent a fruitless day in sweltering heat in the penitentiary area Wednesday checking hundreds of cars and dozens of leads.

And Boomer's comment, along with other evidence, has led some of the penitentiary officials here to believe that the escape plan was conceived well in advance of the breakout by only a few of the 14 men who disappeared into the bush after a softball game Monday evening.

They speculate that most of those who escaped were incited along at the last minute by the ringleaders in the hope that the mass breakout would complicate the search.

Staff Sgt. W. J. Farrell, head of the OPP detachment in nearby Napanee, said it is possible.

"It could be; there's been a lot of speculation about that."

"They (the captured convicts) are not the most cooperative people in the world. We'll probably never know."

Many of the prison officials disagree with penitentiary psychiatrist George Scott who said he believed the break was probably unpremeditated.

Warden Donald Clark said the escape was well-planned and executed. The convicts made their move before the compound was closed and dog patrols began.

He indicated that inadequate lighting in the area where the breakout occurred was a factor.

"They picked the most vulnerable spot in the fence," he said.

SEARCH PRISON AREA

The manhunt, one of the largest in Canadian history is concentrated in an area of about 15 square miles around the maximum-security prison.

Chief Inspector John Hillmer of the OPP said there were no plans to expand the search "until we get some indication these guys are outside the area."

He said he will wait "until somebody sees one of them outside the area and it is legitimate."

Chretien Praised For Park Ruling

CALGARY (CP) — Jean Chretien found the good side of conservationists Wednesday when the northern development minister announced the government's rejection of the $30-million Village Lake Louise development proposal in Banff National Park.

The decision was a "landmark, courageous," said Gavin Henderson of Toronto, executive director of the National and Provincial Parks Association of Canada.

"I frankly did not expect this. Considering the time, effort and money the developer had spent . . . many politicians would have been strongly tempted to compromise.

Tom O'Keefe of Calgary, president of the Alberta Fish and Game Association, said:

"I am very pleased that the government is at last recognizing the need for proper planning and environmental studies. Hopefully, no further development will take place until they're fully aware of all the implications."

Grant McNabb of Calgary, president of the Alberta Wilderness Association, said he was "extremely gratified" with the method by which the decision was taken.

"We hope the same type of rational reasoning will prevail when other park development plans come along."

BACKERS DEJECTED

While the rejection created jubilation among opponents, backers of the project were obviously dejected.

Struan Robertson of Toronto, chairman of the development's board of directors, said in a news release he was "exceedingly disappointed," adding he had no further comment until the minister's statement was studied carefully.

John Hopwood of Calgary, secretary of the board, said he suspected the proposal would be rejected when the majority of briefs at public hearings here in March came out against the plan.

He added he was more certain it would be rejected when the Alberta government later took a negative stand. The announcement Wednesday was only "formal interment" of the project.

At a news conference, Mr. Chretien said, "It is our judgment that the project as planned is too large and could result in undue concentration of visitors and residents in the area."

While the developers submitted several modifications of the plans, "the further restraints I would have imposed upon the size, location, timing and other aspects of the project made it necessary for me to reject the entire project."

Business A Blank —Lewis

Lewis said Finance Minister John Turner's recent budget shows 15 per cent will go to economic development and supports while an equal amount comes in from business.

"Fifteen per cent comes in and 15 per cent goes out — that's a net contribution of zero by corporations to our social and cultural programs."

He said the NDP would suppress "concessions" to large corporations, tax capital gains and end fiscal subterfuges.

Opium Burned

New Mill Bay Ferry Route Urged

Duncan Bureau phone: 746-6181

COBBLE HILL — A group of Cobble Hill residents would like to see the Mill Bay ferry route changed so it would involve a two-mile rather than a five-mile route, the regional board was told here Wednesday evening.

Robert Merilees, spokesman for the group, who is a member of the advisory planning committee for Cobble Hill area, said, "I live within whistle distance of Swartz Bay yet I have to drive all the way there through Victoria or via Nanaimo to reach the mainland."

Merilees said the current run of the ferry from Mill Bay to Brentwood Bay "is of little real use of the residents of this area."

He suggested the ferry should be changed to run between Hatch Point and Deep Cove. Merilees feels this would save about an hour's drive for everyone in the Cowichan valley going to the mainland, reduce traffic on the Pat Bay and Malahat highways and permit more frequent service with the same equipment.

"The existing service is said to require as much as $100,000 subsidy a year," he said. "The short route should operate in the black."

Merilees said the two main objections to the proposal will be from businesses in Brentwood who would feel a small loss of business and from residents in Deep Cove who will object to the increased traffic.

"This is a political decision because obviously some people will be stepped on," he said, as he urged board members to write a letter to the department of highways to have the ferry route changed.

"If we could get the idea publicized and make people more aware of the concept we will be off and running," he added.

The proposal was referred to the board's planning committee to study and bring a recommendation back to the next board meeting.

The committee will also be studying plans by a company to re-build a mill at a Shawnigan Lake site where the Nyberg sawmill was destroyed by fire two years ago.

Resident Ernie Spencer, who submitted a petition signed by 36 residents, asked if the board could do anything to stop the project.

"It is in a residential area although it is not zoned for it," he said.

Spencer said he purchased property and built his retirement home at the north end of Shawnigan Lake near Mason's Campsite, after he ascertained with the company that the sawmill would not be re-built.

"Now the land has been leased to another company," he said.

Somenos Farm Will Continue

DUNCAN — Commander G. S. Windeyer, owner of the Somenos Lake Farm, said today he will continue to operate his farm even though it has been purchase under the government's greenbelt scheme.

The farm was one of four properties along Vancouver Island's east coast bought by the government under the new Green Belt Protection Fund Act, Lands and Forest Minister Ray Williston said Wednesday.

Negotiations to acquire other areas on the island, including the Saanich Peninsula, Sooke and the mainland, are under way, he said.

The Somenos Lake green belt is beside the Trans-Canada Highway and runs down to the lake. It is adjacent to the Cowichan Valley Forest Museum, just north of Duncan.

The lake is an important waterfowl sanctuary.

Williston said some of the properties purchased will continue under existing use and former owners would continue operations on a lease basis.

Crown ownership, he said, will prevent undesirable development of the properties, not always possible with privately-owned land.

Other purchases:

—A 77-acre parcel of land with 1,300-foot frontage along the highway north of Nanaimo and overlooking Nanoose Bay. The land will continue as a dairy farm.

—A 13.5-acre parcel of land with 1,440 feet on the highway north of Big Qualicum River. It will continue as an orchard.

—A total of 106 acres fronting on Fanny Bay with about 5,000 feet of highway frontage.

Williston said this is being considered for future development by the government as a waterfront recreational area.

MILL STILL PLANNED AT BAY

COBBLE HILL — The recent withdrawal of a request by Denis Hagar to rezone his property at Cowichan Bay from rural residential to industrial doesn't mean he has given up plans for a shake and shingle mill there, regional board members found out Wednesday evening.

Hagar has asked the board to declare his property a development area, as a preliminary step towards the negotiation of a land use contract. He said he would like to meet with regional directors to discuss the proposed mill.

The request has been referred to the board's planning committee.

The board also passed a resolution to investigate the possibility of having the land established and preserved under the Green Belt Protection Act.

Director Trevor Daniels assured residents that the matter has to come before a public hearing.

Sewer Project Recommended For Up-Island

NANAIMO (CP) — A consulting firm hired by the Nanaimo Regional District Board has disclosed a sewage disposal plan intended to serve an estimated 210,000 people by the year 2020.

Cost of the plan, which could be extended as far south as Ladysmith, is an estimated $27.7 million.

The report, the product of a one-year study, recommends a tage-by-stage development, beginning with the Parksville-Qualicum area at a cost of $5.2 million.

9 IN MEMORIAM

LAIRD — In loving memory of our Dear Friend, Nan Laird. (Aunt Nancy.)
God looked around his garden,
And found an empty space;
He looked down upon the earth;
And saw your precious face;
He put his arms around you
And lifted you to rest;
God's garden must be beautiful
He only picks the best.
—Always remembered and sadly missed, Helen and George Harris, Granny and Family.

LAIRD — Agnes, who passed away July 13, 1971.
The depths of sorrow we cannot tell,
Of the one we loved so well,
And while she sleeps a peaceful sleep
Her memory we shall always keep.
—Sadly missed by Doug, Del and Merv.

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.
He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: He leadeth me beside the still waters.
He restoreth my soul: He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.
Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me: thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.
Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.
Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

Advice for Warm Days of Summer

In a news release from the American Medical Association, I read that a number of commonly held beliefs about the way to keep cool during the summer are incorrect. For example, a lukewarm bath or shower can have longer lasting cooling benefits that will a cold shower. The cold shower has the reverse effect — it is followed by a warm afterglow as the body produces heat to compensate for the chilling.

Another misconception is that a cool drink of fruit juice and alcohol will be cooling. The taking of alcohol can lead to increased discomfort because alcohol produces heat in the body and interferes with the normal heat-control mechanisms.

Some people think that staying in the water while at a swimming pool or at the beach will protect them from getting a sunburn. But a person can get just as severely burned while swimming.

Medical authorities advise agains the taking of salt tablets, unless a doctor feels that the individual needs them. A more sensible way of replacing the salt that the body loses when the person perspires heavily, is to give an extra shake of the salt shaker at mealtime during the summer.

When too much salt is lost through sweating, the person may develop heat cramps. These can be prevented by taking frequent rest breaks, by drinking extra fluids and by adding salt to food at meals.

A mor eesvere form of heat exhaustion is marked by giddiness, lack of energy, pallor, profuse sweating, vomiting and fainting. These troubles can bring bout heat strokes, which can be very dangerous. In such strokes, the sweat glands stop working and the body temperature climbs seven or eight degrees above normal. As the blood pressure drops, the victim may lapse into unconsciousness. I read that such a person should not be put into ice water, as was formerly done, because that may cause shock and sudden death.

Such severe symptoms do not come without warning, and normally, a person need not go into such an extreme condition. However, elderly persons, infants and small children should be watched closely during hot weather.

People who live in very hot desert areas know that wearing white clothing can help them stay cool. The light-colored clothing reflects heat and sunlight.

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc, for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public every day.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—WANT ADS THAT FAIL TO bring the desired results do so usually, not through a lack of readership, but because they are poorly worded or contain inadequate information.

8—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 384-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient ad-visor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday call.

Pollution Feared From Derby

COBBLE HILL — The B.C. Salmon Derby in Cowichan Bay and Saanich Inlet Aug. 12 and 13 may cause serious pollution damage, the Regional Board was advised Wednesday night.

Members of local fishing associations warned the board the derby will not only pollute the area but will interfere with its recreational value, its spawning population and cause a safety hazard.

The Nanaimo Fish and Game Protective Association and the Cowichan Bay Salmon Club urged regional directors to look into the matter.

Director Margaret Robertson's resolution that a letter be sent to the department of Fisheries opposing the commercial endeavor was tabled until the regional board could find out how other Cowichan Bay residents feel about the proposal.

When it was pointed out it would then be too late to do anything to stop the derby, Director Ken Irving said, "It seems to me that it is already to late."

Spokesman for the Cowichan Bay group Colin Garside said, "I can visualize 2,000 boats in the little bay plus that number times 12 beverage bottles floating there every day.

"You are going to be faced with the complaints after they leave the bay in a mess."

Garside added, "I know it will bring a lot of dollars into Cowichan Bay but it will also take a lot to clean it up.

"I feel steps should be taken to restrict it in some way because we are defeating ourselves by letting it come while we are trying to clean the bay up."

Symphony Concert Saturday

Laszlo Gati will lead the Victoria Symphony Orchestra in a concert at Centennial Square 6 p.m. Saturday.

The concert will be repeated Sunday 2 p.m. at the Cameron bandshell in Beacon Hill Park.

Guest stars will be violinist Masuko Ushioda and her husband, internationally-known cellist Laurence Lesser, who will perform the Brahms double concerto for violin and cello with the orchestra.

The program will include Rossini's overture, the Italian Girl in Algiers, Three Slavonic Dances by Dvorak and Lisz's Second Hungarian Rhapsody.

Fraser McAlpine will be master of ceremonies.

The concert is presented through the co-operation of the city of Victoria, the trust fund of the recording industries and the Victoria Musicians' Association.

Jury Finds Man Innocent In Indecent Assault Case

The verdict was returned at 12.30 a.m. The jury had left the courtroom at 10.45 a.m.

The girl had claimed Ferguson assaulted her at about 6.30 p.m. Nov. 26 after picking her up while hitchhiking on the corner of Harriet and Burnside with a friend.

She said in testimony he put his arm around both of the girls while driving on Tyee Rd.

Her friend jumped out of the car, she said, but the man held on to her, preventing escape.

She was then driven to a park in View Royal, she claimed, and was forced to engage in various sexual acts both there and on the way.

Ferguson, an armed forces warrant officer, agreed he had picked the girls up at Burnside and Harriet but said one of the girls began to yell, for no apparent reason, while he was driving on Tyee Road.

She yelled she wanted out, he said, and began to jump out of the car. Rather than stopping the car he "panicked" and tried to grab the girls to prevent them from falling out.

"I reached over and grabbed her to prevent her jumping out of the car . . . I never really got a hold of her and she jumped right out," Ferguson said.

A short time after the first girl had jumped out, he said, the girl in the car propositioned him.

He consented and the two engaged in various sexual acts, both in the car on the way to the park and at the park, he stated. He firmly denied making any threats to the girl to make her engage in the acts.

Dr. Norman Rivers, a Victoria general practitioner, said he examined the girl at the request of the RCMP at about 10.20 p.m. the same evening in the Royal Jubilee hospital for evidence of indecent assault.

He found no evidence of assault, he said. If the girl had submitted through fear, even without violence, there would normally be evidence.

"I could find no evidence to coincide with the story of indecent sexual assault," he stated.

Rivers said he found the girl's demeanor to be "inappropriate for a person who had just suffered an assault" and had wondered at the time if she was under the influence of marijuana or hashish.

In summing-up, Owen-Flood said the medical testimony gave strong support to the defence case. He suggested the credibility of the girl's testimony was not what it should be to convict a man of a serious crime.

Prosecutor Brian Smith said the girl's life-style, although the jury might not approve of it, did not mean she had any reason to initiate an action against Ferguson if the incident had been of her engineering.

Ferguson had no previous criminal record.

Oarsmen Win In England

MILL BAY — Brentwood College, currently on a rowing tour of Europe, won two out of three recent races in England.

A spokesman for the school reported Wednesday that Brentwood eights defeated St. Paul's School by one length in the final of an inter-school meet Tuesday.

At the Kingston Regatta on Monday, Brentwood senior fours beat Vesta in the semi-finals and went on to win the event by two and one-half lengths. The senior eights from Brentwood defeated Kingston in the semis but trailed Emanuel School across the line in the final.

The school now journeys to Copenhagen before returning home.

Extortion Charged

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two of three men charged with attempting to extort $18,000 from Mayor Tom Campbell were committed for higher court trail Tuesday. Larry Douglas Quayle, 23, and Hans Thomas Herdin, 19, will stand trial.

American Buys Marina

MAPLE BAY — Kurt Horn said today that he has sold his marina in Bird's Eye Cove to a Washington state resident.

Horn would not name purchaser or the selling price because "I feel it is a transaction between the purchaser, and me and I don't know if he wants it publicized."

Horn did say his asking price was $250,000.

After the new owner takes over the business, which Horn has owned for the past 12 years, Horn plans to take his family on a long - deserved holiday through Canada and the U.S."

Horn was chairman of the Cowichan-Malahat SPEC group for two years before he "resigned because he felt he was getting no where and people just didn't care." He is currently Vancouver Island director for the Vancouver-based Greenpeace Foundation.

CAPITAL REGIONAL DISTRICT

Pursuant to Section 766AA of the Municipal Act the following text of By-law No. 107, "Planning Area No. 2, Zoning Amendment By-law No. 7, 1972," is hereby published:

A By-Law to Amend Former B.C. Regulation No. 20/67 and 103/80 (Electoral Areas of Langford, Colwood, Metchosin and View Royal) Planning Area No. 2

The Board of the Capital Regional District in open meeting and pursuant to Section 798A of the "Municipal Act" enacts as follows:

1. Former B.C. Regulation No. 20/67 is amended as follows:
(a) By deleting from the Rural Zone and adding to the Campground Zone, Lot 1 of Lot 147, Plan 22170, Malahat District.
(b) By deleting from the Residential One Zone and adding to the Residential Two Zone, Lots 2 and 3, Section 79, Plan 6190, Esquimalt District.
(c) By deleting from the Limited Agriculture Zone and adding to the Residential One Zone part of Block H, Section 81 and 87, Plan 1138, Esquimalt District.
(d) By deleting from the Motel Zone and adding to the Residential One Zone, part of Lots 1 and 2, Section 5, Plan 11881, Esquimalt District.
(e) By deleting from the Limited Agriculture Zone and adding to the Residential One Zone, a part of Lot 2, Section 83, 84, 89 and 90, Plan 19633, Esquimalt District.
(f) By inserting in Section 3.02 after the definition "Lot, double fronting," the following definitions:—
Lot Line—Exterior Side—means the lot line or lines not being the front or rear lot line, common to the lot and a street.
Lot Line—Front—means the lot line common to the lot and an abutting street, or where there is more than one lot line common abutting streets, the shortest of these lines shall be considered as the front lot line.
Lot Line—Interior Side—means a lot line not being a rear lot line, common to more than one lot or to the lot and a lane.
Lot Line—Rear—means the lot line opposite to and most distant from the front lot line or where the rear portion of the lot is bounded by intersecting side lot lines it shall be the point of such intersection.
(g) By adding after Section 4.13 the following section:—
4.14 Where an application for amendment to this By-law has been refused, no re-application for the same amendment including supporting technical data shall be considered within twelve (12) months of the previous application.

2. Former B.C. Regulation No. 103/80 is amended as follows:—
(a) By adding after Section 8.01 the following new section:—
9.01 Lot Line—Exterior Side—means the lot line or lines not being the front or rear lot line, common to the lot and a street.
Lot Line—Front—means the lot line common to the lot and an abutting street, or where there is more than one lot line common abutting streets, the shortest of these lines shall be considered as the front lot line.
Lot Line—Interior Side—means a lot line not being a rear lot line, common to more than one lot or to the lot and a lane.
Lot Line—Rear—means the lot line opposite to and most distant from the front lot line or where the rear portion of the lot is bounded by intersecting side lot lines it shall be the point of such intersection.
(b) By adding after Section 6.01 the following section:—
9.02 Where an application for amendment to this By-law has been refused, no re-application for the same amendment including supporting technical data shall be considered within twelve (12) months of the previous application.

A copy of the complete by-law may be viewed during normal working hours at the offices of the Capital Regional District, 209 Burnes House, Bastion Square, Victoria, B.C.

Canadians Accept Jobless Fact

By THE CANADIAN INSTITUTE OF PUBLIC OPINION

The big majority of Canadians (71%) appear to have accepted the fact that there is little hope of reducing the number of jobless for many years to come. They believe that with increasing automation in industry and the growing population, unemployment may well remain at a high level for a long time. This is almost a four-to-one ratio over the 19% who hold that this possibility is not true.

The same high level of belief that high unemployment will be with us for a long time, is maintained in all age groups over thirty. Among younger Canadians, however, while almost seven in ten (69%) think the possibility is a fact of current life, it drops to a three to one level over the 23% who think it will not continue.

However, this smaller segment who do not see the long-time continuance of high unemployment are not sure of the solution. When asked what should be done to prevent it, most of them say, in effect, "Make more jobs; expand the economy." Others want automation reduced; or think there should be a lower retirement age. They want a limit on family size, a change of government, lower taxes, less immigration, or wage and price controls to halt inflation.

The question:

"It is possible that for a number of reasons, such as the spread of automation in industry and the increasing population, that unemployment may remain at a high level for many years to come. Do you think this will prove to be true or not?"

Here is the national reaction, and those within the main age groups:

	Will Be True	Will Not Be True	Can't Say
Canada	71%	19%	10%
18-29 years	69	23	8
30-39 years	68	17	15
40-49 years	77	17	6
50 and Over	70	17	13

Those who said that they do not think that unemployment will remain at a high level for many years to come (19%) were asked what they thought could be done to prevent it. Their response:

Make more jobs; expand economy; develop industry; open North	35%
Too many machines; reduce automation	9
Lower retirement age; make room for young	8
Change government; get rid of Trudeau	7
Lower taxes; get new tax structure	5
People too lazy; cut welfare and unemployment payments	4
Stop inflation; introduce wage and price controls	3
Limit families; cut birth rate	3
Limit immigration	1
Cut demands of unions on industry	1
Other	8
Can't say	17
(Some gave more than one reason)	101%

Indians Offered Cannery Loan

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia coastal Indians will receive up to $2 million in federal loans and grants for the purchase and operation of at least one fish cannery, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis said Wednesday.

However, Davis repeated his position that the federal aid will not extend to a proposed cannery at Port Simpson, 20 miles north of Prince Rupert, which was the centre of controversy earlier this year.

Davis said his department will grant $500,000 and the department of Indian Affairs will provide $1.5 million in loans. He said the plan will allow the Indians to come up with the plan they consider best — either one or several canneries.

In February, the federal government rejected a proposal for a $2.5 million cannery at Port Simpson. The project required aid under federal rural development programs. The Port Simpson cannery was to have been operated by nine north coast Indian bands.

"The Port Simpson cannery was rejected because of a poor site, lack of road or rail connections with Prince Rupert and the fact there was no fishing fleet to assure a supply of salmon to maintain the cannery," the minister said.

Labor Union Stand Urged for Teachers

YELLOWKNIFE, NWT (CP) — The outgoing president of the Canadian Teachers Federation said Wednesday teachers should stop flirting with professionalism and start acting like labor unionists.

In a farewell address to delegates at the federation's convention, Rod Fredericks said teachers must protect themselves from government action that infringes upon their rights.

He told the delegates that he is haunted by his growing realization that gains teachers made in the late 1950s and the 1960s were not due to teachers' strength but to the paternalistic benevolence of governments.

The place of teachers in what Fredericks called the educational power structure is a matter of what teachers can command, not what they are worth, he said.

"If we go looking for prestige through being very professional people, we will always be counted out when a crisis comes in our affairs. We have to have power to confront power," he said.

Fredericks said teaching will never be accepted as a profession, and suggested that most teachers are more interested in economic security than in professionalism.

Rainy Day in Summer: Time to Count Blessings

If you don't like a rainy day in summer you might spend a few minutes of the next one in writing out a list of benefits to you, personally. As a gardener, here are a few to top the list. Unless it is a real storm, you will be able to accomplish several major tasks out doors without the scorching, tiring effect of hot sunshine.

If watering has been attended to satisfactorily, you will not need to drag hoses around, but if this job has been neglected, a rainy day is ideal to set sprinklers with a gentle spray going. Every drop of water will be absorbed into the soil, and the overfoliage spraying will cleanse and refresh. You will save water by using sprinklers during rainy weather.

The moving of young plants from one place to another can be done in rain with no harm to the plants. Dampness in the soil and humidity in the air aid in rapid re-establishment.

You will find the soil and the rain warm to the hands, and in the rain there is no dust flying.

Weed seedlings have sprung up in cultivated areas in the past week. Pull or hoe them out now, to have less growing in fall.

Established, larger weeds found growing among shrubs and perennials pull fairly readily from rain dampened soil. When growing among the roots of small plants, it often is possible to lift the plants from the soil and remove the weed roots from the soil ball.

The thinning of vegetables is a job for a rainy day, for inevitably disturbance results of adjacent seedling roots, but the moist air prevents the seedlings from wilting. The damp soil settles around the roots and into the holes left by thinning.

The birds are more active and neighbors less so, outdoors at least. Small sounds are more audible, and those far off have a meaning. Distant foghorns and boat whistles are to me sounds for quiet rainy days. When clouds hang low over the hills and along the waterfront there might as well be fog for all the visility from shore.

To get the most pleasure from a rainy day in summer, don't wear a plastic head cover or plastic rain jacket. Choose a wool toque, old felt hat or something similar to lessen the noise of falling raindrops. And an old soft material jacket and pants allows you to be less aware of the rain. To keep the back of the neck warm as you bend, the knitted wool scarf attributed to "typical" Victorians will surely do the job.

Perhaps we should adopt this as a symbol of our crassness for carrying on our gardening pursuits even in the summer rain.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

Without any doubt the quest for overtricks is responsible for the loss of more game contracts than any other single factor. And the sad part of the whole thing is that in later analogous situations, the non-expert repeats his folly of subordinating the safety of his contract in order to try to make a picayune overtrick.

Today's deal illustrates this folly. In all fairness, however, it should be stated that the hand was played in a low-level game, and our declarer might not even have been aware of the fact that he was jeopardizing his contract in order to make an overtrick.

North-South vulnerable. North deals.

NORTH
◇ 2

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 6 4	♠ J 10 8
♡ J 7 5 2	♡ K 9
◇ K 10 8 5 4	◇ Q 9 7 3
♣ 7	♣ J 5 4 2

SOUTH
♠ K 5 2
♡ Q 10 8 6 3
◇ A J 6
♣ K 8

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of ◇.

On West's opening lead of a low diamond, East put up the queen, which South captured with his ace. At trick two South cashed his king of clubs, after which he led the club eight to dummy's queen. When West discarded a heart on this lead, revealing the "bad" 4-1 break of the outstanding clubs, East could not be prevented from obtaining the lead with the club jack (or the heart king). And when East did obtain the lead, a diamond return by him enabled West to cash four diamond tricks.

As declarer should have viewed the set-up, it was imperative that East be kept out of the lead, since a diamond return by East would result in the ambushing of South's remaining doubleton J-5 of diamonds. At the same time, South should have recognized that he needed five club tricks to fulfil his contract; and he could have accomplished this objective in simple fashion.

Upon winning the opening diamond lead, declarer should have entered the North hand via the ace of spades. The three of clubs would then be led, South inserting his eight-spot. With the eight winning, the club king would be cashed, after which dummy would be re-entered via the heart ace. Dummy's four remaining clubs would then be cashed.

Even if the finesse of the club eight had lost to West's (hypothetical) jack, declarer's contract would be assured. If West returned a heart (in theory), dummy's ace would win the trick. The ace of clubs would then be played, felling South's king, after which the rest of the board's clubs would be cashed.

89th YEAR No. 29 ★ ★ ★ VICTORIA, B.C., THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1972 ★ ★ ★ 10 CENTS DAILY, 20 CENTS SATURDAY

Interior Mills Hit By Wildcat Strike

Discontent among members of the International Woodworkers of America over contract disputes with management spread today from the already-struck coast region to various parts of the interior, threatening to close down the forest industry across most of B.C.

About 350 Crown Zellerbach employees in the Kelowna area were off the job, along with 500 employees of Boundary Forest Products operations in Grand Forks and Midway, 400 Crestbrook Forest Industries employees in Cranbrook and Canal Flats and employees of Glenmerry Sawmills Ltd. near Trail, Tri Pac operations in Slocan and Kootenay Forest Products in Nelson.

In Vancouver today, IWA regional president Jack Moore, said the coast negotiating committee has instructed its lawyers to notify Forest Industrial Relations that FIR's refusal to make a decision on a settlement "constitutes a flagrant violation of the agreement reached on July 4."

Moore said: "If the negotiating committee has not been advised of the position of industry by noon Friday legal action in the Supreme Court will be initiated."

The walkout of interior IWA members is believed to be linked with the negotiations currently being held in Kelowna between the union and Interior Lumber Operators Association.

Earlier Wednesday, about 1,200 IWA members returned to work at six Kamloops-area mills following a five-day wildcat walkout to protest the lack of a contract settlement with interior forest companies.

In Nelson, about 300 forest workers returned to work Tuesday after a one-day walkout.

The union is asking parity with coast woodworkers along with an industry-paid health and pension plans and other fringe benefits. Coast woodworkers have accepted a contract proposal which would bring the base rate for laborers to $1.45 an hour by next June.

Contract negotiations were continuing in Kelowna

McGovern To Make Unity Bid

Times News Service

MIAMI BEACH — Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, the reform-minded preacher's son who won the Democratic nomination for president Wednesday night, gets his first chance to pull together a divided party before today is over.

In his choice of vice-presidential candidate and in his acceptance speech to the final session of the party convention tonight, the 49-year-old McGovern is expected to set a tone that will guide the enthusiasm of his early backers while wooing the substantial bulk of wary or antagonistic Democrats who fought his nomination.

McGovern faced a 1 p.m. PDT deadline in his search for a vice-presidential candidate acceptable to both the coalition of discontent which nominated him and some Democratic old pros who doubted he could beat President Nixon Nov. 7.

McGovern already has been denied, apparently, the one candidate for the vice-presidency that virtually all Democrats here agreed would strengthen the party ticket in its efforts to unseat President Nixon in the November elections.

McGovern told reporters that Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts was the first to phone and congratulate him after the nomination was confirmed. But Kennedy declined, "for very real personal reasons," to become McGovern's running mate.

That appeared to leave the field wide open. Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers, and numerous figures from national and state politics have been mentioned as possibilities.

McGovern staff members and advisers, including actress Shirley MacLaine, sat around a conference table in McGovern's 17th floor penthouse for nearly two and a half hours this morning with McGovern elsewhere in the suite going over at least a dozen names of potential No. 2 candidates.

McGovern won the nomination on the first ballot, as expected, with 1,728.35 votes, far more than the 1,509 which would have assured him a majority of delegates. The

NEWS BRIEFS

Store Clerk Found Murdered

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Edward Oliver, 63, of Burnaby, was found murdered Wednesday in a sporting goods store where he worked as a clerk. Police said he had numerous cuts on his chest and wrists and a four-inch gash on his throat.

Police believe Oliver was killed while attempting to stop a robbery. The cash till in the store was empty. The body was discovered by a passerby who had stopped to look in the store window.

Sixth Con Caught

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Police captured a sixth escaped convict from Millhaven penitentiary today as 150 soldiers from four military bases were put on a standby ready to help search for eight other convicts still free. (See earlier story on Page 26.)

Strike Halt Sought

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Western Hospital will apply to Supreme Court of Ontario today for an injunction to halt the strike by non-medical personnel, Boyd McAulay, the hospital's executive director said Wednesday night.

Yacht in Collision

Ulster Holiday Parades Calm, But Eight Shot

BELFAST (AP) — Security Forces counted today the cost of the "Glorious Twelfth" and found Northern Ireland had suffered one of its bloodiest chapters of gunfighting in three years of strife.

Eight persons, including two British soldiers and a 15-year-old mentally-handicapped boy, were shot dead before, during and after Wednesday's parades throughout the province by tens of thousands of Protestants, including some Orangemen from Toronto.

The loyalist celebrations of a 282-year-old Protestant victory over Roman Catholic armies in the Battle of the Boyne — themselves passed off peacefully, with 32,000 troops, militia and police sandwiched between the communities to forestall violence.

But in advance of the marching, on its periphery and in its wake guerrilla assassins and bombers worked furiously.

The army suffered two killed and 11 wounded in battles with offensive units of the Irish Republican Army. The troops, whose death list since 1969 rose to 91, said they wounded or killed at least five of their shadowy assailants.

The other casualties came from skirmishes involving operatives from both Catholic and Protestant private armies and Ulster's over-all fatality toll rose to at least 425. Twenty-one persons have died since the Catholic-base IRA renounced its ceasefire and resumed its offensive Sunday night.

There was one slight glimmer of hope amid the debris and gore of the day, however.

Seamus Twomey, chief of the IRA's Provisional wing in Belfast, summoned reporters to his home in the Catholic enclave of Andersonstown and told them his forces might consider renewing their ceasefire.

But he said the British government must guarantee there would be no army raids or arrests, no "harassment" of his men, and complete freedom for Provisionals to move freely around, albeit in "low profile."

He again accused British troops of breaking the IRA's ceasefire after only 13 days of relative calm. The British insist the IRA renewed the warfare.

The first to die Wednesday was a Protestant, a youth, gunned down as he strolled through a park in Portadown, County Armagh, while Protestants prepared their banners, flutes and drums for their biggest day of the year.

FBI Surrounds Grounded Plane As Hijackers Hold Hostages

FREEPORT, TEX. (UPI) — A jetliner skyjacked by two heavily armed men for $600,000 ransom blew four tires landing at a small Texas commuter field today. Federal agents surrounded the plane but the hijackers refused to surrender.

The crew members were injured in the hijacking that began over New York Wednesday night.

One stewardess escaped unhurt and the hijackers held three others aboard the stranded jetliner on the small airstrip 50 miles south of Houston. FBI agents attempted to negotiate through bullhorns as a steady rain fell.

The hijackers demanded another, smaller airplane, a pilot and swimming trunks. They said they would leave the ransom money behind if their other demands were met.

In another Wednesday night hijacking, a man surrendered in Oklahoma City after taking an American Airlines plane. A man identified as Melvin Marvin Fisher, 49, succeeding in obtaining a $200,000 ransom and then, surprisingly handed his empty .38 calibre revolver to a stewardess.

All 113 passengers aboard the National Airlines jet, originally commandeered on its planned final approach to John F. Kennedy International Airport, were released unharmed at Philadelphia where the skyjackers transferred to another plane and took off eight hours later with their ransom, three parachutes and six hostage crew members.

Before taking off for Texas, a seventh hostage, pilot Elliott Adams, 55, dived through a cockpit window "like a sack of potatoes" as the jetliner taxied 100 yards from the terminal building. Police dramatically pulled Adams into a speeding car and the jetliner took off with the co-pilot, flight engineer and four stewardesses.

The jetliner bypassed Dallas three hours later and headed for Houston, a regular National Airlines stop, circling down to 14,000 feet. Then they made the surprise landing at 5,000 foot long Lake Jackson airport at Freeport.

The co-pilot, pistol-whipped by the hijackers, and the flight engineer, shot in the side, managed to flee from the jetliner. A stewardess also fled safely and unharmed.

Eight FBI agents armed with high-powered rifles surrounded the jetliner as Sheriff Robert Gladney and state and local police sealed off the area for a radius of a mile.

SIGNS READY BUT NOT WAC

Socred eelction signs are coming off the presses of a Vancouver sign company which has instructions to have the order finished by July 23.

Despite this, Premier Bennett still denies he has set a date for the election, which most observers think will come in late August.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett, touring Alberta on political business, predicted an election will be called by the premier within two weeks.

Bennett said from his Kelowna home that he has nothing to do with the printing of the signs, which urge voters to re-elect him and others of the Socred party.

The premier said the signs do not indicate an impending election and no date has been set — "not even in my own mind."

SAULNIER RULED UNFIT!

QUEBEC (CP) — Jacques Saulnier, Montreal police director, is unfit for his job and his place in the Montreal police organization should be re-evaluated, the Quebec police commission says.

The police commission made the recommendation in a report made public today by Justice Minister Jerome Choquette.

The report, outcome of an inquiry into the conduct of the Montreal police chief, says Saulnier "has neither the competence nor the aptitudes to direct a police service of the size of the police service of the City of Montreal."

Saulnier was appointed police director in April, 1971, by Mayor Jean Drapeau. He was promoted over the heads of 19 other police officers senior to him at the time.

The inquiry into Saulnier's conduct followed published reports that he had received an $800 color television set from a hotel-owner while he was a police captain in charge of the morality squad in Montreal in December, 1968.

The police commission's report censured Saulnier "for having put off the return of a color television set" and "for having neglected to inform his immediate superior."

Bombers Pound Fuel Tanks, Ports

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers hit North Vietnam Wednesday with the heaviest raids in more than a week, setting fire to fuel depots and supply and port facilities in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, the U.S. command announced today.

The command reported more than 340 strikes were flown, equalling the number on July 5 and said the closest to Haiphong was within a mile of the city. It made no mention of any plane losses.

North Vietnam charged that "many waves" of U.S. planes attacked areas inside and outside Haiphong, that dozens of persons were killed and nearly 200 houses destroyed.

Navy pilots from the carrier Hancock reported wrecking 12 buildings in strikes against the Van Dong storage area 20 miles northeast of Haiphong. Other attack planes set afire the Yen Cu and Hon Gai fuel depots 13 and 21 miles east and northeast of Haiphong, the navy said.

In the ground war, the 20,000-man South Vietnamese push into Quang Tri province was stalled for the seventh successive day by tough North Vietnamese resistance.

Meanwhile in Paris, the Vietnam peace talks resumed today after a two-month break, with both sides expressing readiness to discuss proposals for a political solution to the war.

Chief U.S. negotiator William Porter said before going into the conference room "we are entirely flexible about the possibility of discussing our proposals or theirs."

Viet Cong delegation leader Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh said the Communist side was ready to discuss "all new proposals put forward by the Americans in the search for a correct political solution acceptable to all parties."

FISCHER FORFEITS

REYKJAVIK (Reuter) — American challenger Bobby Fischer failed to show up tonight for the second game of the 24-game world chess championship series here and forfeited it to Soviet titleholder Boris Spassky.

Spasskey now leads the 24-game series by two points to none. Under tournament rules, players have one hour to turn up after the scheduled starting time for a game or they forfeit it.

Community Flees Cloud of Poison

Times News Services

PORT ALICE — An estimated 95 tons of chlorine gas escaped from a tank at the Rayonier pulp mill here Wednesday night, forcing evacuation of the mill and the nearby hospital, theatre and legion hall.

Approximately 25 persons, including millworkers and seven patients and two nurses evacuated from the tiny hospital, were treated for chlorine poisoning with oxygen and milk at a hotel in Rumble Beach, four miles north of Port Alice.

Chlorine gas hung like a cloud over the small community 225 miles north of Victoria for a short time until a favorable wind dispersed it a southeasterly direction, away from Port Alice and its new townsite, Rumble Beach.

RCMP said the leak was not in the tank itself but in a pipe leading directly into the mill. A police spokesman said the pipe began leaking earlier in the day and "progressively got worse until it broke open" at about 9:45 p.m.

About 70 persons inside the movie theatre near the mill had sufficient warning to get out of the area without being affected, but a score of men at the plant gulped oxygen to clear their lungs of the choking gas.

Mayor John Vandercelft said chlorine, used to bleach pulp, had been leaking at the plant earlier in the day, although without serious effect, and that "these leaks have been happening quite often recently."

A southeast wind blew the gas to the hospital, where the staff rushed to close windows and doors to protect the patients until they could be removed.

Ont. Storm Blacks Out 1,000 Homes

TORONTO (CP) — About 1,000 homes were without electricity today after a storm swept through the cottage country north of Toronto, knocking out power to about 4,000 customers, a spokesman for Ontario Hydro said today.

The rain storm, coupled with high winds, hit Wednesday night and knocked down power lines and uprooted trees.

There are 11,500 members of Local 1000, Canadian Union of Public Employees, off their jobs today, a hydro official said.

FINISHING TOUCHES are put on the low-pollution car of engineering students of the University of British Columbia prior to entering in a competition sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Saskatchewan Retail Sales Up

SASKATOON (CP) — An upward tread in the province's economy continued last month in Saskatchewan, according to the Retail Merchants' Association.

Total retail sales in the province in June were $125 million compared with $105 million in June, 1971, an 18.8-per-cent increase.

Sales for the first six months of this year totalled $663 million, up $111 million from the total of $552 in the same period last year.

R. E. Walker, secretary-manager of the Saskatoon branch of the association, said the major increase has been in farm sales.

Farm cash receipts for the first six months of 1972 were $301.5 million, up $122.5 million from the $179 in the first half of 1971.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP) — The market was higher at the close on the grain exchange today on general buyer interest.

Flax was ½ to 2 higher on largely an exporter interest. Rapeseed was 1½ to 2 higher on a limited commercial interest and rye was 1¼ to 1½ higher on commission house and domestic shipper buying.

Wednesday's export wheat clearances included 857,000 bushels to Syria, 121,000 to Germany and 511,000 bushels to the United

Good Samaritan Guise For Tourist Robbery

By DOUG MacRAE
Times Staff

What seemed like a friendly gesture to a tourist ended in 30 minutes of terror Wednesday afternoon for a young American woman.

Jan Marie Thompson, 19, of Kailua-Kona, Hawaii, arrived in Victoria aboard the 12:30 p.m. ferry from Seattle.

A friend who was to meet her didn't show up, so she started walking north on Douglas, headed for the friend's Brentwood home.

* * *

Bell suggested the woman come in and change her rain-drenched clothes, after which he would help her get to Brentwood.

He held it at the woman's back, then at her throat, then pushed her backwards over a sofa and ran out with her purse and knapsack, containing $18 in cash, personal papers and clothing.

* * *

Other residents of the building saw the man running away and called police.

The knapsack and purse were found stashed under the stairs of Slumber Lodge, 3110 Douglas, half an hour later. Bell was picked up minutes later in the neighborhood.

He pleaded guilty in provincial court today to a charge of armed robbery. Judge William Ostler remanded him in custody to July 28 for pre-sentence report and sentence.

GAPING HOLE at the corner of Quebec and Oswego is the future site of Harbor Towers, a 15-storey apartment block which Ald. Clyde Savage said earlier will be a "great big box". The apartment aroused controversy last month when city council members angrily admitted they knew nothing of the huge project since it conformed to bylaws and required new zoning.

Critic Dismissed By Ambulance Firm

The other founding committee member is ambulance attendant Lynn Klein, who quit GCA in early June, expressing dissatisfaction with conditions.

Tuttle said he was given no reason for his dismissal but he's convinced it is because of the efforts being made by himself and others to improve ambulance services in the area.

"I realized there was a certain amount of risk involved, a certain amount of persecution to be expected. But the way I see it, if you believe in something strong enough you have to be prepared to face the consequences."

Tuttle said he and Klein do not fault the personnel involved in ambulance services.

Under a three-year contract, GCA provides the Victoria emergency ambulance service for about $60,000 a year. The contract expires June 30, 1973.

Knezacky said Tuttle was dismissed because "he doesn't qualify for the position as attendant."

Ald. Bill Tindall, chairman of the city's health and welfare committee, said today the city will investigate any complaints on ambulance services submitted by individuals.

Tindall made the statement after a closed meeting with city solicitor Terry O'Grady and department heads. The meeting was to deal with the question of whether to make public a confidential report on Garden City Ambulance Service.

Tindall said it was decided not to release contents of the report until council had discussed it at a committee-of-the-whole meeting July 25.

Tuttle has beeen employed by the company since April 1971. He said his credentials include a B.C. industrial first aid certificate, C class; a St. John Ambulance first air certificate, and a civil defence light and heavy rescue certificate.

He said Knezacky's statement makes him look "very foolish," coming as it does 14 months after he first hired Tuttle.

Tuttle said he and Klein had no intention of "becoming involved in any hassle" but they are deterined to continue working for betterment of ambulance service conditions in the capital regional area.

"We have talked about the lack of safety but there are many other points we could have brought to light."

Tuttle and his committee have invited municipal councils, fire departments and others involved in ambulance service to attend a meeting in the St. John Ambulance Hall on Pandora at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

A new film will have its premiere showing at the meeting. Made in Seattle, it's based on the work of the Medic I ambulance program in the Washington city.

The showing will be followed by a panel discussion.

Tuttle said Oak Bay MLA Dr. Scott Wallace will join himself and Klein on the panel.

NEW PLAYGROUNDS 'COME TO THE KIDS'

That's the attitude of Victoria's recreation department. The idea is to bring recreation to districts where no supervised playgrounds exist.

First test for the mobile playground experiment will occur Friday at Bushby-Eberts park when recreation staff move in a hut and organize games, crafts, music, creative drama and field trips for boys and girls between the ages of 5 and 13.

No Work-to-Rule Says Police Union

A spokesman for the Victoria Police Union said today no implication was intended that city police may conduct a summer of work-to-rule.

Dermod Owen-Flood, lawyer for the union, said at a press conference Tuesday there may have been a suggestion that the police would work to rule this summer in their contract dispute with the Victoria Police Commission.

"No such statement was made either expressly or by implication," Owen-Flood said.

The union has at all times made clear that its members, being officers engaged in the most vital form of public service, namely law enforcement, and being sworn to uphold the law, their position is that there will be no strike or other illegal slowdown no matter what the city may do," he said.

Talks between the police union and the city police commission broke down last week. The policemen are seeking a greater increase than the 3.7 per cent offered by the city over one year.

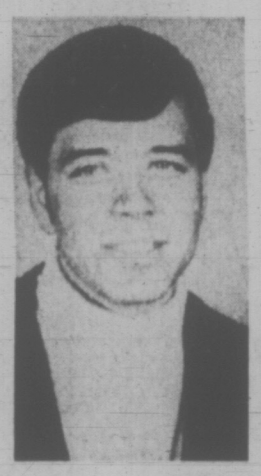
Owen Flood commented on remarks by Acting Mayor Tom Christie on the subject of police morale by saying "the facts speak for themselves."

"A resolution was passed at the last meeting unanimously asking the negotiators to draw to the city's attention the serious morale problem that exists," Owen-Flood said.

The police feel that they are not getting a fair shake from the city. This is bound to have, and has had, a depressing effect.

"If Ald. Christie is still in doubt I can only suggest that he ask an independent investigator to investigate this very question," he said.

Burgess



Warrant Issued On Hermit

He is American-born Joseph Henry Burgess, 25, of Jersey City, N.J., also known as Job Week. The RCMP said he may still be on Vancouver Island or the B.C. mainland.

A warrant for his arrest on a non-capital murder charge was issued Wednesday and police forces across North America have been alerted.

Burgess, who attended a Jesuit college in Jersey City, is reported to have lived as a hermit in the woods for a year or two, said Cpl. Dan Creally of the Victoria RCMP general investigation section.

He is six foot two inches, from 150 to 160 pounds, soft-spoken, fond of making Biblical references and considered highly intelligent and dangerous.

Indications are Burgess left the Port Alberni area about June 21, the day before the bodies of Anne Barbara Durrant, 22, of Vancouver and Lief Carlsson, also 22, of Sweden were found near Radar Beach, about five miles south of Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast.

Both victims had been shot several times in the head. They were found by a camper, the bodies still in sleeping bags at a rude campsite, and it was later estimated they had been dead one or two days.

Police are still seeking the murder weapon, which they have identified as a Gevarm .22 calibre rifle made in Saskatoon.

When last seen in the Long Beach area where he was camping Burgess had dark medium length hair and a trimmed beard.

But police suspect he may have changed his identity and now be clean-shaven.

Creally said police appreciated the help the public had given after an earlier appeal for information on Burgess' whereabouts. He urged anyone who knew of the wanted man's location to contact the nearest police station.

Deputy Minister Dies Suddenly

Alex Turner, deputy agriculture minister, died this morning in St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver after suffering a stroke Tuesday at an agriculture conference.

Turner suffered a stroke a year ago and took a two-month holiday before returning to work full time.

$10,000 FOR SOCIAL ACTION

Charles Barber, originator of Victoria's Cool-Aid, has received a $10,000 federal grant to subsidize a Resources Exchange project.

The project, organized by the Pacific Community Self-Development Society, will encourage active and sympathetic co-operation among B.C. social action groups.

PCSDS is a province-wide association of social action-social change organizations. There are seven chapters in B.C., each operating autonomously but co-operating in matters of mutual concern.

The people involved in the Resources Exchange project (REP) will act as information distributors for the seven chapters.

"One of our goals is to start a network of continuing information exchange," said Barber.

"Information will be sent to various communities throughout the province to keep the general public informed as well as people involved in projects," he said.

Another REP goal is to develop a working coalition among the chapters. Barber said if the government made a "bad decision" which affects the public, the coalition would represent the public "to fight in a manner that hasn't happened before."

"We take organizing very seriously," said Barber. "Social changes don't happen by accident."

He believes projects launched by various action groups could be more successful if they concentrated more on organization than money.

"You don't need very much money when you have people who are interested," he said.

The Rain Kept Coming . . . and the Tourists Going

Tourists with cars and trailers, boats and campers jammed the Swartz Bay ferry terminal Wednesday, washed from Vancouver Island by five days of unseasonable rain.

Today—after a little sunshine followed by less ominous clouds and an encouraging forecast — ferry traffic was reported as "actually quite light."

But soggy Wednesday, which produced record rainfalls elsewhere and close to three-quarters of an inch locally, also generated two-hour delays at the ferry terminal for visitors tired of having their fleeting vacations washed out.

The exodus filled the four waiting lanes inside the terminal grounds and reached back along the Pat Bay Highway. By 4 p.m. 16 ferries had carried away capacity loads of 150 vehicles and there was no easing in the line-up.

Tourists whose holiday visit to the island had been cut short were disappointed but not disgruntled.

Karl Eich of Wenatchee, Washington, said he and his family just arrived on the island from Port Angeles and had planned to stay in Victoria a few days.

"But after two days of rain, we're heading for the interior," he said.

"Rain doesn't bother me," said Ralph Peters of Calgary, who visits the island every summer.

"I don't think we'll come back to Vancouver Island," said Harold Hook of Dallas, Texas, who was leaving after an overnight visit.

"It costs too much money to get here, for what we haven't had a chance to see."

A terminal official said people trying to avoid a detour route into Vancouver from the Horseshoe Bay ferry terminal were adding to the backlog.

The department of highways reported parts of the Upper Levels Highway in West Vancouver washed out and traffic was being diverted to Marine Drive — a narrow, winding route into Vancouver.

But the official said most of the backlog was caused because people were in a hurry to leave the rain-struck island.

"And I don't blame them for that."

That last of a persistent pattern of wet weather off the Pacific is expected to pass tonight, bringing rain during darkness, the weather office forecasts.

While there's another disturbance on the way it's expected to take a more northerly track, leaving skies sunny in south and central B.C. by Friday afternoon. Temperatures will begin a gradual upswing.

Wednesday produced record rainfalls for July in Vancouver and Abbotsford with more than half the month to come. Twenty-four hour records were also set in Vancouver, with 2.03 inches, Abbotsford with 3.21 inches and Tofino on Vancouver Island's west coast, with 4.97 inches.

Interior Mills Hit By Wildcat Strike

Discontent among members of the International Woodworkers of America over contract disputes with management spread today from the already-struck coast region to various parts of the interior, threatening to close down the forest industry across most of B.C.

About 350 Crown Zellerbach employees in the Kelowna area were off the job, along with 500 employees of Boundary Forest Products operations in Grand Forks and Midway, 400 Crestbrook Forest Industries employees in Cranbrook and Canal Flats and employees of Glenmerry Sawmills Ltd. near Trail, Tri Pac operations in Slocan and Kootenay Forest Products in Nelson.

In Vancouver today, IWA regional president Jack Moore, said the coast negotiating committee has instructed its lawyers to notify Forest Industrial Relations that FIR's refusal to make a decision on a settlement "constitutes a flagrant violation of the agreement reached on July 4."

Moore said: "If the negotiating committee has not been advised of the position of industry by noon Friday legal action in the Supreme Court will be initiated."

The walkout of interior IWA members is believed to be linked with the negotiations currently being held in Kelowna between the union and Interior Lumber Operators Association.

Earlier Wednesday, about 1,200 IWA members returned to work at six Kamloops-area mills following a five-day wildcat walkout to protest the lack of a contract settlement with interior forest companies.

In Nelson, about 300 forest workers returned to work Tuesday after a one-day walkout.

The union is asking parity with coast woodworkers along with industry-paid health and pension plans and other fringe benefits. Coast woodworkers have accepted a contract proposal which would bring the base rate for laborers to $4.45 an hour by next June.

FBI Surrounds Grounded Plane As Hijackers Hold Hostages

FREEPORT, TEX. (UPI) — A jetliner skyjacked by two heavily armed men for $600,000 ransom blew four tires landing at a small Texas commuter field today. Federal agents surrounded the plane but the hijackers refused to surrender.

The crew members were injured in the hijacking that began over New York Wednesday night.

One stewardess escaped unhurt and the hijackers held three others aboard the stranded jetliner on the small airstrip 50 miles south of Houston. FBI agents attempted to negotiate through bullhorns as a steady rain fell.

The hijackers demanded another, smaller airplane, a pilot and swimming trunks. They said they would leave the ransom money behind if their other demands were met.

In another Wednesday night hijacking, a man surrendered in Oklahoma City after taking an American Airlines plane. A man identified as Melvin Marvin Elsher, 43, succeeding in obtaining a $200,000 ransom and then, surprisingly handed his empty .38 calibre revolver to a stewardess.

All 113 passengers aboard the National Airlines jet, originally commandeered on its planned final approach to John F. Kennedy International Airport, were released unharmed at Philadelphia where the skyjackers transferred to another plane and took off eight hours later with their ransom, three parachutes and six hostage crew members.

Before taking off for Texas, a seventh hostage, pilot Elliott Adams, 55, dived through a cockpit window "like a sack of potatoes" as the jetliner taxied 100 yards from the terminal building. Police dramatically pulled Adams into a speeding car and the jetliner took off with the co-pilot, flight engineer and four stewardesses.

McGovern Chooses Eagleton

Times News Service

MIAMI BEACH — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern has asked Senator Thomas F. Eagleton of Missouri to be his running mate in the November election against President Nixon, informed sources said today.

There was no immediate word whether the 42-year-old Eagleton had responded to the McGovern request.

Eagleton in his first Senate term had compiled a liberal voting record. He is considered to be an ally of organized labor.

Earlier the Missouri senator had openly indicated his interest in the vice-presidential nomination and had told reporters Wednesday night he was one of three leading contenders after Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts had rejected a spot on the ticket.

In that conversation with reporters, Eagleton said he could help a McGovern campaign because of his youth, his Roman Catholic religion, his urban background and his ties with labor.

He and his wife Barbara Ann have two children.

McGovern was denied the one candidate for the vice-presidency that virtually all Democrats here agreed would strengthen the party ticket in its efforts to unseat President Nixon in the November elections.

McGovern told reporters that Senator Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts was the first to phone and congratulate him after the nomination was confirmed. But Kennedy declined, "for very real personal reasons," to become McGovern's running mate.

McGovern staff members and advisers, including actress Shirley MacLaine, sat around a conference table in McGovern's 17th floor penthouse for nearly two and a half hours this morning with McGovern elsewhere in the suite going over at least a dozen names of potential No. 2 candidates.

McGovern won the nomination on the first ballot, as expected, with 1,728.35 votes, far more than the 1,509 which would have assured him a majority of delegates. The

NEWS BRIEFS

Store Clerk Found Murdered

VANCOUVER (CP) — George Edward Oliver, 68, of Burnaby, was found murdered Wednesday in a sporting goods store where he worked as a clerk. Police said he had numerous cuts on his chest and wrists and a four-inch gash on his throat.

Police believe Oliver was killed while attempting to stop a robbery. The cash till in the store was empty. The body was discovered by a passerby who had stopped to look in the store window.

New Charges Laid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four more locals of the carpenters' union were charged Thursday under the Mediation Commission Act with failing to order their members back to work and with purporting to authorize an illegal strike. The locals are: 452, Vancouver; 527, Nanaimo; 1735, Prince Rupert, and 1251, New Westminster.

Strike Halt Sought

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Western Hospital will apply to Supreme Court of Ontario today for an injunction to halt the strike by non-medical personnel, Boyd McAulay, the hospital's executive director said Wednesday night.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — A yacht piloted by Australian Bill Howell in the transatlantic singlehanded yacht race has been crippled by a collision with a Russian trawler, race organizers said today.

Ulster Holiday: Parades Calm, But Eight Shot

BELFAST (AP) — Security Forces counted today the cost of the "Glorious Twelfth" and found Northern Ireland had suffered one of its bloodiest chapters of gunfighting in three years of strife.

Eight persons, including two British soldiers and a 15-year-old mentally-handicapped boy, were shot dead before, during and after Wednesday's parades throughout the province. Tens of thousands of Protestants, including some Orangemen from Toronto, took part.

The loyalist celebrations — of a 282-year-old Protestant victory over Roman Catholic armies in the Battle of the Boyne — themselves passed off peacefully, with 32,000 troops, militia and police sandwiched between the communities to forestall violence.

But in advance of the marching, on its periphery and in its wake guerrilla assassins and bombers worked furiously.

The army suffered two killed and 11 wounded in battles with offensive units of the Irish Republican Army. The troops, whose death list since 1969 rose to 91, said they wounded or killed at least five of their shadowy assailants.

The other casualties came from skirmishes involving operatives from both Catholic and Protestant private armies and Ulster's over-all fatality toll rose to at least 425. Twenty-one persons have died since the Catholic-base IRA renounced its ceasefire and resumed its offensive Sunday night.

There was one slight glimmer of hope amid the debris and gore of the day, however.

Seamus Twomey, chief of the IRA's Provisional wing in Belfast, summoned reporters to his home in the Catholic enclave of Andersonstown and told them his forces might consider renewing their ceasefire.

But he said the British government must guarantee there would be no army raids or arrests, no "harassment" of his men, and complete freedom for Provisionals to move freely around, albeit in "low profile."

He again accused British troops of breaking the IRA's ceasefire after only 13 days of relative calm. The British insist the IRA renewed the warfare.

The first to die Wednesday was a Protestant youth, gunned down as he strolled through a park in Portadown, County Armagh, while Protestants prepared their banners, flutes and drums for their biggest day of the year.

SIGNS READY BUT NOT WAC

Socred election signs are coming off the presses of a Vancouver sign company which has instructions to have the order finished by July 23.

Despite this, Premier Bennett still denies he has set a date for the election, which most observers think will come in late August.

Opposition leader Dave Barrett, touring Alberta on political business, predicted an election will be called by the premier within two weeks.

Bennett said from his Kelowna home that he has nothing to do with the printing of the signs, which urge voters to re-elect him and others of the Socred party.

The premier said the signs do not indicate an impending election and no date has been set — "not even in my own mind."

Bombers Pound Fuel Tanks, Ports

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. fighter-bombers hit North Vietnam Wednesday with the heaviest raids in more than a week, setting fire to fuel depots and supply and port facilities in the Hanoi-Haiphong area, the U.S. command announced today.

The command reported more than 340 strikes were flown, equalling the number on July 5 and said the closest to Haiphong was within a mile of the city. It made no mention of any plane losses.

North Vietnam charged that "many waves" of U.S. planes attacked areas inside and outside Haiphong, that dozens of persons were killed and nearly 200 houses destroyed.

Navy pilots from the carrier Hancock reported wrecking 12 buildings in strikes against the Van Dong storage area 20 miles northeast of Haiphong. Other attack planes set afire the Yen Cu and Hon Gai fuel depots 13 and 21 miles east and northeast of Haiphong, the navy said.

In the ground war, the 20,000-man South Vietnamese push into Quang Tri province was stalled for the seventh successive day by tough North Vietnamese resistance.

Meanwhile in Paris, the Vietnam peace talks resumed today after a two-month break, with both sides expressing readiness to discuss proposals for a political solution to the war.

Chief U.S. negotiator William Porter said before going into the conference room "we are entirely flexible about the possibility of discussing our proposals or theirs."

Viet Cong delegation leader Mrs. Nguyen Thi Binh said the Communist side was ready to discuss "all new proposals put forward by the Americans in the search for a correct political solution acceptable to all parties."

FISCHER FORFEITS

REYKJAVIK (Reuter) — American challenger Bobby Fischer failed to show up tonight for the second game of the 24-game world chess championship series here and forfeited it to Soviet title-holder Boris Spassky.

Spassky now leads the 24-game series by two points to none. Under tournament rules, players have one hour to turn up after the scheduled starting time for a game or they forfeit it.

SAULNIER RULED UNFIT

QUEBEC (CP) — Jacques Saulnier, Montreal police director, is unfit for his job and his place in the Montreal police organization should be re-evaluated, the Quebec police commission says.

The police commission made the recommendation in a report made public today by Justice Minister Jerome Choquette.

The report, outcome of an inquiry into the conduct of the Montreal police chief, says Saulnier "has neither the competence nor the aptitudes to direct a police service of the size of the police service of the City of Montreal."

Saulnier was appointed police director in April, 1971, by Mayor Jean Drapeau. He was promoted over the heads of 19 other police officers senior to him at the time.

The inquiry into Saulnier's conduct followed published reports that he had received an $800 color television set from a hotel-owner while he was a police captain in charge of the morality squad in Montreal in December, 1966.

The police commission's report censured Saulnier "for having put off the return of a color television set" and "for having neglected to inform his immediate superior."

Community Flees Cloud of Poison

Times News Services

PORT ALICE — An estimated 95 tons of chlorine gas escaped from a tank at the Rayonier pulp mill here Wednesday night, forcing evacuation of the mill and the nearby hospital, theatre and legion hall.

Approximately 25 persons, including millworkers and seven patients and two nurses evacuated from the tiny hospital, were treated for chlorine poisoning with oxygen and milk at a hotel in Rumble Beach, four miles north of Port Alice.

Chlorine gas hung like a cloud over the small community 225 miles north of Victoria for a short time until a favorable wind dispersed it a southeasterly direction, away from Port Alice and its new townsite, Rumble Beach.

RCMP said the leak was not in the tank itself but in a pipe leading directly into the mill. A police spokesman said the pipe began leaking earlier in the day and "progressively got worse until it broke open" at about 9:45 p.m.

About 70 persons inside the movie theatre near the mill had sufficient warning to get out of the area without being affected, but a score of men at the plant gulped oxygen to clear their lungs of the choking gas.

Mayor John Vanderelft said chlorine, used to bleach pulp, had been leaking at the plant earlier in the day, although without serious effect, and that "these leaks have been happening quite often recently."

A southeast wind blew the gas to the hospital, where the staff rushed to close windows and doors to protect the patients until they could be removed.

'Insufficient Evidence' For Charges

VANCOUVER (CP) — Attorney-General Les Peterson has been told there is insufficient evidence to warrant the laying of criminal charges over a demonstration in New Westminster last month against members of the provincial cabinet.

Vancouver lawyer Sam Toy, appointed special prosecutor after New Westminster police said charges were likely, said Thursday he had reported to Peterson that there is not enough evidence.

Toy said he made the recommendation regarding the conduct of the crowd after an extensive examination of reports, photographs taken at the scene and potential witnesses.

FINISHING TOUCHES are put on the low-pollution car of engineering students of the University of British Columbia prior to entering in a competition sponsored by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
